Republican State Ticket.

FOR STATE TREASURER,
MATTHEW S. QUAY, OF BEAVER COUNTY.

Republican County Ticket.

JURY COMMISSIONER,
DANIEL HESS, OF LINDEN HALL.

CORONER,
DR. S. F. LYTLE, OF PHILIPSBURG.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THAT New York Flower must be the last rose of Summer.

"INDUSTRIAL protection and political liberty" should be the battle cry of Republicans.

IF you have not paid State and county taxes within two years, pay them at once.

THE Flower has fallen out of the New York Democratic ticket. Now it is a very dilapidated nosegay.

MME. JUDIC, a famous French actress, will be one of the bright particular stars to attract attention in New York City this season.

THE Scranton Wochenblatt, which has been the German organ of Democracy in the Wyoming region for twenty years, has indorsed the Republican ticket and renounced all allegiance to the Democratic party.

HERE's a plank from the New York Republican platform—"Tenth, That we demand the strict enforcement by the National Government of the law prohibiting the importation of contract labor." Vote the Republican ticket.

THE people of Yorkville, N. Y., have manufactured a kite 16 feet and 5 inches in length and 14 feet wide. They tried to fly it last Sunday, but the trial was a failure, owing to the extreme length of the tail, it being 400 feet long. Another attempt will be made.

GOLDSMITH MAID, for many years the queen of the turf, died near Trenton, N. J., on Thursday, She was a vicious animal when young and sold as low as $150. When her merits became known and she was winning her greatest races she was valued at $40,000. Her entire winnings were $240,000.

DR. S. F. LYTLE, whom the Republicans, on Tuesday, the 22d, nominated for coroner, is one of the most skillful physicians in the county. It is almost time to choose an officer from some other part of the county than Bellefonte, and there is no place where the services of such an officer are more frequently required than Philipsburg and vicinity.

THE latest estimate of the coming corn crop places it, in round figures, at 2,000,000,000 bushels. This is more than 195,000,000 bushels over any previous year. Who says that good times are not coming again?—Phila. Bulletin. It is true that Nature is doing all she can to make up for the deficiencies of the Democrats.

THE Watchman, last week, surrendered much of its space to a double column extract from Legislative Documents in an endeavor to prove that Col. Quay, Republican candidate for Treasurer, was concerned in attempts at bribery made during the time the Pittsburg Riot bill was pending in the Legislature. But where does any one of the witnesses state that Quay offered or paid any money? We fail to notice a word to that effect. Mr. Chas. Wolfe was a member of the investigating committee and is in a better position than the Watchman editor to know whether any stigma attaches to Col. Quay, and we find Mr. Wolfe one of Mr. Quay's most earnest supporters. That is sufficient refutation.

Vote the Republican Ticket.

Because of the approach of a State election, some of the Democratic papers are endeavoring to make their readers believe that better times are dawning.

That is false, however, as the terrible tide of poverty and distress is now only beginning to be felt. This period of depression has been threatened since 1883, and was hastened and intensified one year ago when Cleveland was elected. Hundreds of citizens of Bellefonte and Centre county feel it acutely, and they realize that had Blaine been elected all would have been different. They know that large orders for work that were withdrawn as soon as the Democrats came into power have never been given again, and will not be given under the present condition of affairs. An order of this kind was withdrawn from an iron manufacturing firm near Bellefonte, and the former employes of this firm are now in distress. The glass works lost a very large order by reason of the same event, and probably have lost many others.

During the summer the families of men out of employment were able to bridge over the absolute want which seemed to beat the door. How will it be this winter. Left to the tender mercies of want, woe and Democracy, their condition will be pitiful indeed.

This work cannot be undone by voting the Republican State and county tickets this fall. Nothing can undo it. But a Republican victory will assist in restoring confidence and will pave the way for a National victory in 1888 for the party which is fighting for the protection of home industries and the maintenance of political liberty.

The Issue in Virginia.

If the speeches of Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, are to be taken as a guide, there seems to be no doubt that the chief issue in the political campaign now in progress in that state is nulification of the constitution and the laws as expounded by the Supreme Court of the United States. The court in its decisions on what were known as the coupon cases, very properly held that the clause of the constitution excluding from the jurisdiction of the United States courts suits against a state, by citizens of another state, does not protect the state of Virginia in the attempt to defraud its creditors in the manner and to the extent designed by certain acts of the legislature. Gen. Lee, on the other hand, commits the Bourbons of the state to the doctrine that the legislature is supreme, and may defraud the state's creditors in any manner which it may choose without interference by the federal courts. He declares that the real issue is: Shall Virginians assert the sovereignity of their state against the usurpations of the federal courts? and he asserts that if the Virginia Democrats succeed in the pending election they will resist the invasion of Virginia's rights by all means within their power. It has been generally supposed that the states-rights nonsense was abandoned some twenty years ago at Appomattox, and that the theory claiming the right to resist was dead. It seems to exist, however; the snake was "scotch'd, not kill'd." The killing process should not be too long delayed.

EASTERN ROUMELIA, the absorption of which by Bulgaria has created such a flutter in European politics, was a province created by the congress of Berlin in 1878. It was autonomic until the recent change in government, though, under the provisions of the treaty, it formed an integral part of the Turkish empire, and was governed by a Christian appointed by the Porte, subject to the approval of the powers. It is bounded on the north by the Balkans, on the east by the Red sea, on the south by old Roumelia, and on the west by Bulgaria. The area is 13,663 square miles, and the population 750,000.

Up in a Balloon.

Captain Renard, of Paris, it is said, has solved the problem of steering a balloon. Thousands of spectators witnessed a recent trial trip on the banks of the Siene.

The balloon behaved beautifully, so the report says, "rising suddenly in mid-air, and, after remaining motionless for a short time, sailed off successively toward the East, West, North and South, and finally took its course steadily toward the Point du Jour, about three miles from the starting point. Here the balloon, descending slightly, paused again; then unresistingly obeying its steersman, it sailed back to the camp of Chalais, where it descended." The enthusiastic Frenchmen who had assembled cheered lustily and are satisfied that air navigation is an established fact.

If this report is true the prospects of the balloon as a means of aerial locomotion have brightened. In aerial traveling, the scientists inform us, there are two distinct conditions to be fulfilled. First, there must be a command of vertical motion; the force of gravity must be for the time counteracted, and the heavy body must have a capability of floating or rising or falling at pleasure. Second, there must, in addition to this, be a power of horizontal transition through the air. The balloon already fulfills one of the two necessary conditions; it can float in the air, and it can be made to rise at pleasure. The great obstacle heretofore has been the want of power over the direction of its flight, which, it is claimed, Captain Renard has solved.

Balloons, it has been truly said, have been at the mercy of the wind, which "bloweth where it listeth." A vehicle which can only travel to some unknown place is not likely to have many business passengers. The problem is one of great interest and importance, and, if the principle has been solved, the cost, which is said to be very great, will not long be an obstacle, as many minds will set to work to cheapen the expense of aerial navigation.

NOW, SAYS the Lebanon Courier, look at this thing calmly and fairly, for a moment.—Mr. Cleveland is President of the United States by the increased number of votes given the South, based on negro suffrage. Had not this increase been made Cleveland would have been defeated. Denying the right to vote to the colored citizen, is practically giving the white voter of the South a much greater power in the electoral college and in Congressional representation than is possessed by the white voter of the North. Is this an inferiority to which the citizens of the North are quietly to submit? Before slavery was abolished the whites of the South had the advantage over the whites of the North of three votes for Congressmen and for President for every five negroes in their section. Now, by denying the negroes the right of suffrage they have an extra vote for every colored person on their soil. Is not this alone a matter of sufficient importance to warrant an exercise of the great American right of free discussion?

GALUSHA A. GROW in Pittsburg Commercial:—Mr. Quay will have a majority large enough for all practical purposes. The Democrats have put up a man who has no record, not known except to his neighbors. But you know a Democrat who is not known always runs better with the party. It all depends on getting out the votes. I hear of no disaffection among Republicans. Quay is a natural born leader and always for fair play. He will give us square politics in the state so far as he can control it. I don't think there will be much talking done, but I am ready to do anything I can for the party. From this time forward we must all be Republicans. You know the Republicans must elect the next president.

The Proposed Reorganization.

The most liberal construction that can be put on Mr. Cleveland's letter to Mr. Eaton, remarks the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, is that he means to have the Civil Service law enforced in its letter and spirit, and that whatever he can do to strengthen and improve what has already been accomplished in that direction will be done. If he is not paltering in a double sense, he gives notice to his party and to the country that he will not permit changes for the mere sake of change, and will hold every subordinate connected with the appointing power responsible for any infraction of the letter or spirit of the law.

To do this would be to simply carry out the pledges he made both before and since the election, but when is he going to begin? There have been scores of confessedly bad appointments made, but no one as yet has been held responsible. The Civil Service rules have been flagrantly violated in numerous instances and no one has been brought to book. A revocation here and a suspension there, after the whole country has been aroused over some notoriously unfit appointment, furnish utterly inadequate evidence of an earnest desire to enforce the law.

THE Watchman denounces D. S. Keller, Esq., on the strength of the fact that somebody told the Watchman editor that Mr. Keller severely criticised President Cleveland and his appointments, during the recent Republican county convention. Mr. Keller may have done so. We hope he did. It must have been previous to the tilt between Mr. Milliken and Col. Hastings, however, for we heard all that followed the "tilt" and know that Col. Keller made no such remarks after that time. But what if he did "assail" Cleveland? No one more richly deserves censure. He is the most depraved, blundering President that ever disgraced the position. His appointmente are positively ridiculous and almost half of them are made up of low criminals. We hope every speaker will "assail" Mr. Cleveland and the entire Democratic party.

ROSWELL P. FLOWER is a New York perennial. He blooms as a candidate whenever there is a Democrat nomination to be made. He is reported to have a very good sized bar'l and a tendency to knock a head out of it upon slight provocation, which fact caused some Democrats to boom him for Governor. His boom for Governor only amounted to one vote, but when Hill was nominated, knowing he would be a load to carry, the Democratic eye turned hopefully and lovingly on Flower's bar'l and they nominated him for Lieutenant Governor, as a cork suited to float Hill. Flower, however, does not ache to bloom in that conservatory and declines the "honah." Likewise it is understood the head of that bar'l will not be started this campaign. There is tribulation in the Democratic camp.

THE coming election in Ohio will be held under a stringent registration law, applying only to the large cities. No person can register unless he applies personally, and no one can vote unless he is registered. The registration offices are open in the various districts from 8 in the morning until 9 at night, and six days are devoted to registration. From the 1st of October until the evening of the 6th, is the time for attending to this matter. Such a law is none too exacting, and should be made a rule of action in every state in the Union.

THE rebellion in the Northwest has been apparently silenced for the present, but the sentence of Riel may result in Canada's being burdened with one of larger proportions and nearer home. The French Canadians are becoming bitterly incensed against the English, and if Riel be hanged, they may make it the cause of a serious outbreak.

Their Military Records.

Let us see: What was the name of the number of Colonel B. Day's regiment in the war of the rebellion? Col. Quay's was the One Hundred and Thirty-fourth Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers. It was in a number of memorable battles. What fight was Mr. Day in?—Pittsburg Times.

Life-long acquaintances of Mr. Day in Philadelphia, say that throughout the war he was what was then known as a very bitter copperhead. These facts were used against him by the young Democrats of Philadelphia when he was named for one of the city nominations some time ago.—Phil'a Ex.

FERD. WARD now denies that he pays $100 a week for his luxurious entertainment in Ludlow street jail. He says he only pays $40, and that that is paid out of a check for $5,000 sent him by a friend for the express purpose of meeting such expenses. Very good! Now will Mr. Ferd. Ward tell how much of the money he and his friends stole, and this particular friend got, out of the $5,000 in question? The records of the courts have many instances of astounding impudence exhibited by counterfeiters, forgers, pickpockets and other rascals, but we think the Ward case is unequalled in unblushing impudence by any other case on record.

TWENTY-FIVE postmasters, says the West Chester Record, were appointed in Chester county in one day, which is sufficient glory for the heart of any Democrat. The appeal of W. U. Hensel, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, to the President to give the offices in the commonwealth to Democrats as rapidly as possible is being heeded But the effect will not be to cut the Republican vote down in Chester county or in the Commonwealth for that matter. Pennsylvania will be found to be as loyally Republican this fall as she was last. All the Republicans have to do is to turn out on election day and vote and all will be well for the Keystone State.

THE owners of the Cleveland Rolling mills are, in a measure, reaping the fruits of their own foolishness. Some time ago a much more reasonable strike than the present one was in progress. Then, says the Philadelphia Times, the employers imported a lot of turbulent Socialists. They took the place of other workmen, but now refuse to be superseded themselves without a fight. As the men's original demands have been complied with, the strike seems inexcusable, but we cannot but believe that, so far as the employers are concerned, it is what they deserve.

MEN who have once been conspicuous in public life and then fallen disgraced are apt to get weary of an obscurity that ought to be agreeable to them, and they break out in print every now and then, with a letter or manifesto. Jefferson Davis is an example on this side of the water and Prince Napoleon Plon-Plon Bonaparte is one on the other. Davis hurls a letter at the American public half a dozen times a year, and Plon-Plon a manifesto at the French nearly as often.

A NEW form of abuse is now aimed at Col. Quay, the Republican candidate for State Treasurer. It is to denounce him as "the incarnation of all that fell in the downfall of Blaine." This is the language of Congressman Ermentrout before the Berks County Convention. Republicans will accept the issue as stated, and recall the fact when Quay is elected.

ALL parties agree that the Republicans have nominated an unexceptional ticket in New York State. The New York Sun is the only paper we have seen that is satisfied with the Democratic ticket. The Republican platform is also the better of the two. Therefore, listen for something to drop in New York State.

Poetry.

THE WOOD GIANT.

From Alton Bay to Sandwich Dome,
From Mad to Saco river,
For patriarchs of the primal wood
We sought with vain endeavor.

And then we said: "The giants old
Are lost beyond retrieval,
This pigmy growth the axe hath spared
Is not the wood primeval.

"Look where we will, o'er vale and hill,
How idle are our searches,
For broad-girthed maples, wide-limbed oaks,
Centennial pines and birches!

"Their tortured limbs the axe and saw
Have changed to beams and trestles;
They rest in walls, they float on seas,
They rot in sunken vessels.

"This shorn and wasted mountain land
Of underbush and boulder—
Who thinks to see its full-grown tree
Must live a century older."

At last to us a woodland path,
To open sunset leading,
Revealed the Anakim of pines
Our wildest wish exceeding.

Alone, the level sun before;
Below, the lake's green islands;
Beyond, in misty distance dim,
The rugged Northern Highlands.

Dark Titan on his Sunset Hill
Of time and change defiant!
How dwarfed the common woodland seemed
Before the old-time giant!

What marvel that in simpler days
Of the world's early childhood,
Men crowned with garlands, gifts and praise,
Such monarchs of the wild-wood?

That Tyrian maids with flower and song
Danced through the hill grove's spaces,
And hoary-bearded Druids found
In woods their holy places?

With somewhat of that Pagan awe
With Christian reverence blending,
We saw our pine tree's mighty arms
Above our heads extending.

We heard his needles' mystic rune,
Now rising, and now dying,
As erst Dodona's priestess heard
The oak leaves prophesying.

Was it the half unconscious moan
Of one apart and mateless,
The weariness of unshared power,
The loneliness of greatness?

O dawns and sunsets, lend to him
Your beauty and your wonder,
Blithe sparrow, sing thy summer song
His solemn shadow under!

Play lightly on his slender keys,
O wind of Summer, waking
For hills like these, the sound of seas
On far-off beaches breaking!

And let the eagle and the crow
Rest on his still green branches,
When winds shake down his winter snow
In silver avalanches.

The brave are braver for their cheer,
The strongest need assurance,
The sigh of longing makes not less
The lesson of endurance.

—John G. Whittier in the Independent.

A Lament for Jumbo.

Great Jumbo's gone,
His trunk is packed for aye,
And now he journeys toward his native sky;
High up among the elephantine hosts
He'll wander grandly with the other ghosts.
No more the circus band shall grieve his ear
Nor shouts of thousands rising tier on tier,
But far away from bugle's blare and beat of drum,
The fife's shrill shriek, the viol's drowsy strum,
He'll take his rest, his earthly labors o'er,
Where, Heaven be praised, we shall not hear him snore.

Our Story Teller.

While a Slumming.

"Ah," said Mrs. Prodgit, "things have changed since my day! When I was a girl folks used to stay at home and help their mothers do the housework, and piece bed-quilts and embroider lace veils, instead of running about all the dirty streets and narrow lanes in creation!"

Mrs. Prodgit did not take kindly to modern civilization. She had come up from Owl Brook to visit her cousin Mary Ann, who had married Ebenezer Hardy a quarter of a century before and settled down in New York, and as she expressed herself, "things seemed to be all turned topsy-turvy."

"But, Cousin Prodgy," said saucy Hattie Hardy, who was equipping herself with basket, bag, parasol and waterproof cloak, "it is a work of mercy and charity that we are engaged in."

"Nonsense!" irritably cried Mrs. Prodgit. "I think you've all gone crazy together! I'm surprised at you, Mary Ann, to let the child go tramping over the city by herself. In my days it wasn't considered respectable."

"You say truly that times have changed since then," mildly uttered Mrs. Hardy, who was knitting fleecy wool by the fire. "Be sure, Hattie, that you come early. The new minister is to be here to-night to tea, and Betsy can't be trusted with the new set of moss-rose china."

"I wonder what he is like?" said Hattie, as she tied the deep blue strings of her hat into a coquettish bow under her round chin. "I do hope he is young and handsome."

"My dear!" remonstrated Mrs. Prodgit. "Of course," added Hattie, "we knew that old Mr. Puzzleton was a perfect saint; but one don't like saints with red noses and spectacles and three layers of double chin!"

Mrs. Prodgit looked as if she expected that Hattie would be struck by lightning on the spot for that heretical remark. "Harriet!" was all that she could utter. While Mrs. Hardy, more accustomed to the audacious speeches of her pretty daughter, went on in her purring, sing-song tones: "Don't forget that poor widow in Cob lane, Hattie. And if you go to Milo Reneau's I think it would be well to speak a word in season to that great lazy son of his, who is always buying lottery tickets and does nothing to support the old folks."

"Oh, yes! I'm glad you mentioned that," said Hattie, penciling an entry on her little tablets. "Mem'—to give Jonas Reno a piece of my mind." "Dear Mr. Puzzleton always said that that young man was a dreadful stumbling block."

"And I think," went on Mrs. Hardy, "that the Gray sisters can find work for Alice Jennings now, if she is still unemployed."

"The which?" said Mrs. Prodgit.

"The Gray sisters," explained Mrs. Hardy. "One of the church organizations."

Mrs. Prodgit glared. "Is there any end to the folly and nonsense of the present generation?" said she.

"I suppose," laughed Hattie, "that in your day, Cousin Prodgy, nobody went slumming?"

"Went where?" said Mrs. Prodgit.

"Slumming!" distinctly repeated Hattie.

"She means visiting the poor and seeking out cases of destitution," explained Mrs. Hardy. "Hattie, my child, I do wish you wouldn't talk slang!"

Hattie disappeared with a little breeze of laughter, while Mrs. Prodgit resettled her spectacles and uttered a deep groan. "Mark my words Mary Ann," said she, "that girl will come to no good."

"Hattie does not mean any harm, Cousin Prodgit," mildly pleaded Mrs. Hardy, as she knitted on.

While Hattie, on her errand of mercy, went from house to house in the darkling lanes and crowded tenement districts, leaving an ounce of green tea here and a lecture there, a bottle of beef, wine and iron by a sick-bed, a little rose-scented snuff in a poor old woman's hand, a picture book on the pillow of some little child, a wooden toy in the delighted grasp of a skeleton-like infant, a gentle admonition in the ear of a willful factory girl, and a word of comfort to encourage a despairing widow.

She could be gay and flippant enough when "Cousin Prodgy" teased her, but here she seemed to have assumed a personality of dignity and sweetness.

Old Milo Reneau's was the last house on her list. She glanced anxiously at her watch as she went in. "Past five," she said to herself. "I must make haste or the dear little mamma will be fretting." The dusk of the October evening had already darkened the little room, where lay the patient old sufferer from rheumatism. It was always neat in there, but in Hattie's eyes it seemed more squallid and poverty-stricken than usual to-night. As she came around the corner of the door she perceived a young man sitting at an uncovered pine table—a figure strongly silhoutted against the window. "Ah!" said she, the spirit of righteous indignation rising up in her heart, "I've caught you at last in the very midst of your evil practices!"

The young man rose hurriedly to his feet. "I beg your pardon—" he began, but the tide of Hattie's indignation was not thus easily stemmed.

"Don't beg my pardon," said she, "beg the pardon of society—of public opinion—of everything else which you are outraging by this shameful behavior of yours. Apparently you have neither pride nor self-respect left—now take my advice; turn over a new leaf. Give up your evil practices and set yourself to earn a decent living. Look me in the eyes, young man!" she added severely; "tell me if you are not ashamed of yourself!"

To all appearances the culprit was stricken dumb. Involuntarily he raised a pair of clear, honest eyes to Hattie's face, according to orders, but he did not speak a word, good, bad or indifferent.

"He's not bad looking," thought Hattie; "but I must not neglect the chance of making an impression. I am surprised at you!" she added aloud; "a great, able bodied fellow like you sitting down as a disreputable incubus on your friends and relatives. Don't you know that you are the talk of the neighborhood? Get up—go to work! Never let me see you idling here again! No; don't answer me. I never enter into argument with the people in my district. Logic is useless in a case like this.

She hurried to old Milo, who, being stone deaf, looked smilingly on during this brief but energetic monologue, as if it had been a recitation from Shakespeare.

"Here's some extract of beef for you, Mr. Reneau," she shouted in his ear; "and a tumbler of lemon jelly! I hope your lumbago is better. I'm sorry I can't stay a little longer to-day, but I'll come again very soon." And nodding and smiling good by to him she bustled away. She arrived none too soon on the domestic tapis. Betsy had already broken one of the moss-rose tea cups, and spilled all the salid dressing, so that Harriet had to go to work to make more. Cousin Prodgit had lost her spectacles, and Mrs. Hardy could not find her best lace frill. Consequently she was only half through arranging her hair when Mrs. Hardy called up the stair case:

"Harriet! Harriet! Mr. Gray has come!"

She hurriedly coiled up the shining bronze locks and fastened them with a shell-pin, tied the Swiss muslin bow at her throat, and, catching up her pocket-handkerchief, ran down stairs. Cousin Prodgit was still adjusting her hat strings in her own room. Mrs. Hardy had gone to see if the tea was properly steeping; and so our heroine walked directly into the presence of Reverend Cecil Gray.

"I am Miss Hardy," said she "I beg your pardon! but—" Here she stopped with the syllables of further speech fairly frozen on her tongue. A cold chill crept through all her veins as she recognized the curly brown hair, the clear, honest eyes, the thick moustache. But the Reverend Cecil was equal to the emergency.

"Don't beg my pardon!" said he, gravely, although there was a roguish sparkle in his eyes. "Beg the pardon of society—of public opinion. No, Miss Hardy," he cried, suddenly dropping his solemn mannerism; "don't look so distressed! Of course it was a mistake. Don't I know perfectly well that it was."

"Oh, dear! oh, dear!" gasped Hattie, "I thought it was Jonas Reneau. I never had seen him, you know, and it was so dark, and—and—"

"And so you scolded the wrong man," said Mr. Gray. "Well, I'll pass the lecture on the genuine offender at the very first opportunity, only I'm afraid I cannot emphasize it half so neatly as you did."

"Oh, don't said Hattie, piteously lifting her little hands. "Please don't!"

"No, I won't," said Mr. Gray. "We'll forget and forgive."

And when Cousin Prodgit and Mrs. Hardy came in Harriet and the young clergyman were earnestly discussing the rival merits of the geraniums on Mrs. Hardy's flower stand.

Mrs. Prodgit stayed until spring, and when she went back home she told her daughter that Hattie Hardy was engaged to a young minister. "Or at least I suspicion she is," she added. "She won't own nothin' for sartin; but things ain't now as they used to be. Folks as was engaged to be married used to be proud of it. But Hattie's a queer girl. She hasn't been brought up as girls were brought up in my day."

The New Hampshire Insurance Question.

The New England correspondent of Bradstreet's writes as follows:

The "foreign" fire insurance companies which have hitherto done business in New Hampshire stand firm in their determination to boycott the State on account of its new "valued policy" law. When the governor signed the act 58 such corporations were in the field. Now, though the statute does not become operative before January, every one of the 58 has ceased to do business. More than this, companies in Baltimore, Cincinnati, New Orleans and other places which have had no risks in New Hampshire, but which might have been supposed ready to avail themselves of this opportunity, are signing the agreement to issue no policies in the Granite State so long as the law stands. No further action has been determined on, but still more radical measures are contemplated. The compact binds the assenting companies to accept no risk on property located in New Hampshire "for any citizen of that state." It is now suggested that it may be well to define New Hampshire citizenship, in order that no New Hampshire man may be able to take advantage of residence in Massachusetts, for example, or shield himself under Massachusetts corporations, to secure protection from fire. Another threatened step is the cancellation of existing policies as soon as this can be brought about.

Some of the insurance companies, having been peculiarly unlucky, profess to be glad enough of a chance to get out of New Hampshire, and are convinced that the people of that state will be the principal sufferers from the withdrawal. It is taken for granted that companies, whether mutual or otherwise, will be formed within the state to fill the gap, but nothing effectual has been done yet. Meanwhile numerous business concerns whose insurance is running out, without the possibility of their renewing it, find it impossible to get credit. This difficulty is relied on by the beligerent corporations to force the state to capitulate. An extra session of the legislature, to be called for the purpose of modifying or repealing the law, is talked about, but necessity has not come to that point yet.

Not a few New Hampshire people anticipate that the companies will surrender, and the existence of grievances is forcibly proclaimed. The prohibition of combinations to fix tariffs is the result of rates which many of the insured believe to have been exorbitant. With regard to "valued policies"—that is to say the enactment that in case of total loss under a $1,000 policy $1,000 shall be paid, and not some smaller sum at which the loss may be "adjusted"—it is held by the defenders of the statute that if a company is not willing to pay $1,000 it ought not to issue a policy and charge premiums on that basis. The legislation is thus aimed both at one of the foundation principles of the business and also at prevailing practices under it. In some quarters it is asserted that no corporation that has undertaken to serve the public has a moral right to withdraw that service summarily through dislike of a public law, and altogether it would be difficult to say which of the two parties is just now the more highly incensed.

THERE seems to be no doubt, says the Norristown Herald, that a large proportion of the Irish-Americans who voted the Republican ticket for the first time last fall have came into our ranks to stay. It was the doctrine of protection and the well known attitude of the Republican party, ever alert to guard the interests of the country, on that subject which induced so many of them to forsake their allegiance to Democracy, the party of Free Trade. The votes won on this issue in our own county were a welcome addition to our strength, and there is reason to believe that the number will be augmented rather than decreased. The Republican party is the workingman's party—this truth can not be too often reiterated or too well understood by the toiling millions who have made our great country what she is to-day.

Cucumbers sliced are said to remove freckles. This is not wonderful. They have been known to "remove" whole families.

Speech of James Milliken, Esq., before the Republican County Convention on the Subject of Anti-discrimination of Railroads.

[The proprietor of this journal personally requested Mr. Milliken to furnish, at large elaborated, for publication, his remarks embodying connectedly his argument and reply. The columns of this journal are open for a full discussion of this important question.—ED.]

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am, as a Republican, constrained to oppose the adoption of the resolution, reported by your committee for adoption, on the subject of what has become known as the anti-discrimination of railroads. I am opposed to this question being brought into our politics and taken hold of as a party measure. But knowing full well how conventions of this kind are formed and brought together, to do party work, and, in advance, members shown privately how they shall vote, I can to-day have no hope that my hurried thoughts will turn you from your purpose. That this subject may come before us in correct parliamentary form I offer for adoption a substitute for your resolution, as reported and when we shall have had full discussion, I will move to lay the whole subject on the table, for I am opposed to any action whatever

This question is so important, and so far-reaching in its consequences, and so delicate in its relation to political parties, that I am quite sure the gentlemen here assembled, fresh from their farms and their industries, have not had time for careful thought and consideration of this subject and are not therefore equipped to vote wisely and well—to vote so that in future voting they may always act consistently, as I know from their integrity, their honor, and their personal worth they desire to act.

Are you aware that the issue as made for you by the action of the Democratic party at their recent State convention on this subject, is but the first step, politically, in agrarianism, and all the kindred isms that flow from it? To these isms, one and all, I am opposed, and if this question shall come to personal issue with my own party on that head, I am, with or without my party, opposed to them, one and all.

If the railways of our Commonwealth are guilty of violation of law they are as amenable by the law as the humblest or the greatest citizen, and I am heartily with you in compelling obedience to law. If the laws governing their action are not satisfactory to you bring here, at our primary conventions, what further features of law are desirable and let us, before the whole people, discuss them, but I beg of you have a care, simply for party agrandisement, your action, looking to interpretation of our State Constitution and of the laws of the Commonwealth.

To be consistent, after we have adopted as a cardinal principle of party measure, the doctrine embodied in your resolutions, we must follow it wherever it may legitimately lead us. We must ask for laws to restrain all corporations from discrimination in their transaction of business. I fancy a measure of law compelling all banks to make no discrimination in their rate of interest or discount charged customers would be immensely popular with the public, (some can borrow at this time at 4 per cent) and what a vote we could gather up should we make that a party measure. How the political charlatans of the hour would hurrah for such a measure? Discrimination is the enterprise, the basis of success, of every business whether corporate or private, and if you hamper, constrain, or control, the advantages of discrimination in business you must, of necessity, destroy all business. I am reminded that the concluding clause of your resolution is in the exact language of the constitution of our State. Yes! and it is therefore superfluous. Every good Republican is familiar with the constitution of the United States, the constitution of his own state and the ten commandments. I am in favor of and will support every feature of the constitution of our State, and am heartily opposed to any one railroad corporation owning or controlling all the railways within our State. The system of one corporation buying and leasing contiguous lines, is, in the extent to which it has been carried, most pernicious, much too often the work of avarice and for individual profit only. Competition is the life of trade but only so when it destroys not that which sustains it.

The argument made use of to secure the adoption of your resolution in this convention in appealing to the farmers present to consider how much better they would be off if the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. could be compelled by law to transport their grain to market at the same rate per ton per mile that they are obliged to accept, in competition with rival lines, for the traffic of the far West, is most specious. But if such an appeal was made use of against some measure that the gentleman, having charge of these resolutions, favored he would be the first to denounce it as the argument of a demagogue. This is not the time nor place for such appeals. We are not here to appeal to the meanest sentiments of the human heart, for upon such agrarianism, communism and socialism are founded. Our sphere is to know and to lead in advance in the wisest measures of government.

There is much that enters into the cost of railway traffic that I fear this meeting does not understand. The shipping and receiving charges, the rate of speed, the expense of management, the full and the partial car load, and much else beside, enter into the cost of transportation whether the traffic is carried a long or short distance. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company may transport grain or other traffic from the far west to Pittsburg free of charge, and from there to the sea board make its whole charge, and yet not be guilty of discrimination controllable by the laws of our State.

You say "corporations have no souls." Do you suppose that the forty thousand voters within our State owning bonds, or stock, or having interest in or with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, will stand idly by and see you single out their corporation—as the Democratic party have done—and array political parties to work out the destruction of their property without showing you that there are at least souls to be conciliated. Honesty and fair dealing is as deeply implanted in the heart of every true American citizen as is that of his personal religion, and he is but to be brought to fully understand the subject to have him ready to mount guard with his honor and stand forth for the protection of the rights of property no less than those of the citizen. Nor will he consent for a moment that you shall appeal to sentiments and teach doctrines of which mobs are begot for the destruction of property. Our great party has ever stood forth to champion the rights of property no less in the hands of corporations than in the hands of the individual, and do not now, I beg of you, drag our future as a party into the slough of demagogism.

I do not believe much in these folk and political partisans who are ever prating about the interests of the dear people, and who are always advertising themselves as ready to protect their interests even to the extent of destroying the value of property not their own—they will bear watching continually

If you have gone on in an unwise career and granted too unlimited privileges to corporations you must not blame your corporations, you must blame the kind of stuff of which you have made statesmen. You, or your laws emanating directly from you, have created these corporations and invited capital here to embark in them, and are you now willing after having enjoyed and are still enjoying the benefits that these combinations of capital have brought to us in all the ramifications of our business, shall be legislated into invaluable or unprofitable investments?

You attempt to excite prejudice against me personally, that I am a stockholder in the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., and, that I am "a gentleman of leisure." And you say that I got in here to represent the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. Whoever so states states an untruth. I am most happy to be a stockholder in the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. I wish I were a stockholder ten times as large, for I know of no corporation that has done so much for the development of the wealth of the people and the support of any state as the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has done for the people of and for this State. It is to-day the largest railroad corporation in the world and it possesses and maintains within our State the best railroad in the world; it contributes vastly to the business interests of our county and its immediate neighborhood, and I am in favor of maintaining it, not destroying it. But when, pray, did personal possessions disqualify one from being a Republican; must I come here by individual leave, or otherwise be subject to personal taunt? If it concerns the members of this convention and their business, I may tell you that financially my commencment in life was as limited as that of any one within the sound of my voice, and if through labor and perseverance I have been enabled to put by of the dried fruits of industry for old age—instead of wasting it in riotous living—I trust in our boasted land of freedom such a course may not just yet be deemed a disgrace nor disqualify me from being a Republican. I move you, sir, that the whole subject under discussion be laid upon the table.

ANNA ELLA CARROL, of Maryland, is the woman who saved the Union. It wasn't Grant, nor Lincoln, nor the soldiers, but Anna Ella Carrol. She planned and they merely executed. This surprising fact is told in the recent issue of the Women's Journal. The pall of despair, the foreboding of defeat hung over the county, when this woman gave her plans to the War department. They were adopted and the Tennessee campaign with its brilliant victories revived hope, cut the heart of the rebellion, and turned the course of war. We are glad this fact is found out in time. The article does not state whether Anna Ella Carrol is living or dead, but we believe that all this money which is being raised for Grant monuments should now be used in erecting a monument to the memory of A. E. C. We had always supposed that Grant had as much as any one else to do with these plans, but now that it is known that this woman's brain conceived and matured the plans and the others were only instrumentalities for executing them the circumstances are certainly altered, and America can boast like France of her Joan d'Arc.

Now in the lovely woodlands
There is a lot of fun;
And merrily the squirrels laugh,
And glad the chipmunks run,
To see the little city dude
Look down his loaded gun.

A Proficient Scholar.

A gentleman who spent several years teaching gives the following account of a teacher's interview with a boy of about fourteen in a rural district. Other teachers have probably had similar experiences:

"What is your name?"

"Sam."

"What is the rest of it?"

"Sam-yell."

"What is your surname?"

"Middle name's Hozayer."

"And the last?"

"Jackson."

"Jackson, then, is the name of your parents?"

"No, mum, it ain't. One of 'em is named Willyum and t'tother one Mary Jane."

"How old are you?"

"Dunno."

"What! A boy as large as you doesn't know his age?"

"Yessum."

"A boy of your size ought to know the exact year of his birth."

"I do know the year."

"What year was it?"

"Same year as my sister Harriet."

"Indeed!"

"Yessum; we're twins."

"I want you to ask your mother how old you are, and tell me tomorrow."

"She dunno; she dunno nothin'."

"That's not a very nice way to talk about your mother."

"She don't keer."

"Why doesn't she?"

"She's dead."

"Where do you live?"

"To home."

"Where is your home?"

"Over yon." This with a jerk of his head over his left shoulder.

"No, mum; I don't need none."

"Why not?"

"I'm only in my a b ab's."

"Then you have never had any educational advantages?"

Boy scratches his head and says "No, mum; not that I knows of But I've had airysiplas. If wha you said is worse nor that I don' want to ketch it."—Chicago Tribune

The Burlington Hawkeye on Cranks.

What would we do were it not for cranks? How slowly the old world would move, did not cranks keep it rushing. Columbus was a crank, and at last he met the fate of most cranks—was thrown into prison, and died in poverty and disgrace. Greatly venerated now? Oh, yes. Harvey was a crank on the subject of the circulation of the blood; Galileo was an astronomical crank; Fulton was a crank on the subject of steam navigation; Moore was a telegraph crank. All the old Abolitionists were cranks. The Pilgrim fathers were cranks; John Bunyan was a crank, any man who doesn't think as you do, my son, is a crank. And by and by the crank you despise will have his name in every man's mouth, and a monument to his memory crumbling down in a dozen cities, while nobody outside of your native village will know that you ever lived. Deal gently with the crank, my boy. Of course some cranks are crankier than others, but a crank is a thing that turns something, it makes the wheels go round, it insures progress. The thing that goes in for variety, that changes its position a hundred times a day, that is no crank; that is a weather-vane, my son. You "thank Heaven you are not a crank." Don't say that, my son. Maybe you couldn't be a crank, if you would. Heaven is not very particular when it wants a weather-vane; almost any man will do for that. But when it wants a crank, my boy, it looks about very carefully. Before you thank Heaven that you are not a crank, examine yourself and see what it is that debars you from being a crank.

Newton and Voltaire on Prophecy.

It is a remarkable fact that Sir Isaac Newton, in his work on the prophecies of Daniel and Revelation, said that if they were true it would be necessary that a new mode of traveling should be invented. He said that the knowledge of mankind would be so increased before a certain date, or time terminated—namely, 1,260 years—that they would be able to travel at the rate of fifty miles an hour. Voltaire got hold of this, and, true to the spirit of skepticism of all ages, said: "Now, look at the mighty mind of Newton, who discovered gravitation, when he became an old man and got into his dotage he began to study the book called the Bible, and it seems in order to credit its fabulous nonsense we must believe that the knowledge of mankind will be so increased that we shall be able to travel at the rate of fifty miles an hour. The poor dotard." The self complacency of the philosophic infidel made his friends laugh, but if he should get into a railway train, even a skeptic to-day would have to say: "Newton was a wise philosopher, Voltaire a poor old dotard."—Christian Oracle.

A lightning artist has a photograph of a pistol bullet in its flight. He will next try to catch a shadow of a man's week's salary when his wife, desirous of a new fall bonnet, has got the wealth in her possession.

"Pa," said a little boy, "What is an absolute monarchy?" "I can't explain it, my son, so that you can comprehend it. Wait until you get married, my son, and then you'll know."

THE TOMB OF GRANT.

Those sacred ashes lonely lie
On a neglected hill,
Rude booths offend the reverent eye,
The click of drink, the vender's cry,
At night alone 'tis still.

Oh, we who looked upon his face,
Shall we forsake him there?
Dear lady, till this resting-place
Be smoothed by time, be blessed with grace,
Confide him to our care.

A sentinel now guards his tomb,
A nation then will we;
Safe in the great crypt's solemn gloom,
Beneath the Capitol's broad dome,
In peace his rest will be.

WM. MCMICHAEL.

JIMMY'S LITTLE GOAT.

Jimmy had a little goat
Which followed him about,
And evary where that Jimmy stooped,
That bad goat knocked him out!

It followed him to school one day,
And scared the female teacher,
But she climbed quickly on a bench
Where Billy couldn't reach 'er.

Then when the goat was hustled out,
It lingered 'round the door,
And, when its owner sauntered forth,
Knocked him a rod or more!

"What makes the goat buck Jimmy so?"
The children all they cried;
"'Cause Jimmy plagues the goat, you know!"
The teacher quick replied.

—The girl I shall marry
Need not be so pretty;
Nor need she be wise-like
Or awfully witty.
A saleslady she,
Or a clerkess, may be;
Or even an agent
For books, do you see?
Should she know how to cook
I might much overlook
And though she wrote verse
Or played the piano,
I never should curse.
But one thing she must not,
And you don't—I trust not—
And that is
[This fiat is]
To annually make,
As though life were at stake,
Twelve crockfulls of jelly
And—O, my poor nerves!—
Forty jars of preserves.

Differs With Miss Cleveland.

My home was in Chicago years ago, writes Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, when its condition was most unsanitary. Cholera, slowly tracing its way westward from the seaboard like a sleuth hound, appeared in the city. The death rate ran up rapidly day after day, and panic seized the people. All who could fled the country. Panic stricken with the rest, I besought my husband, with weak, cowardly tears, to seek for our little children and ourselves a refuge from the pestilence. He was a clergyman and duty compelled him to remain; nor could I change his purpose. He would seek a place of safety for his family, but they must go without him. That was not to be thought of. Oppressed with vague, indefinite terror, with which it is impossible to reason, I decided to remain also, but to acquaint myself with the dreaded plague—to know what were its manifestations, what its preventatives and what its remedies.

Early next morning I found my way to that part of the city where, amid poverty, ignorance and filth, death was reaping a mighty harvest. Dead carts were clattering through the streets. From one house they gathered two; from another three; from yet another the entire family. Amid the squalor, the terror, the despair, the sickness and death of the ignorant people, mainly of foreign birth, the Sisters of Charity and Mercy moved like angels of healing To some they administered remedies, to others they spoke in calm and assuring tones, soothing their fright. They took in charge the orphaned children, rebuked the cowardly selfishness that stood aloof from the sufferers, and encouraged with divine hope the dying.

"Have you no fear of cholera?" I inquired of one who was endeavoring to arouse courage in a man whose wife and child had just been taken from him. "Do you not regard it contagious?"

"Until the hour comes for me to die, I am immortal," was her answer; "and if one must die, is there a nobler place than the post of duty?"

I felt the tonic of her reply immediately, and gladly listened to her directions; and as it became apparent to me that the pestilence was largely preventable, and that it had a manageable stage, as I witnessed her fearlessness in its presence, and her skilful administration of remedies, the burden rolled from my heart, and my fear was gone forever. Dismissing me with a small package of the remedies she employed, and with written prescriptions for others, she said: "Whatever else you do, do not yield to fear; for we could soon banish the cholera from this quarter if we could halt the panic of these poor people." These Sisters of Charity answer the call of any, no matter what their need. With such memories I should be a narrow bigot indeed if, because their religious belief is other than mine, I failed to do homage to this noble order of women who have glorified the last fifteen centuries. These women, by the nomenclature of social science, are "superfluous women," because they are unmarried. Shall we talk such nonsense?

A French oculist is said to have replaced with a rabbit's eye the eye which he was called upon to remove from a young girl. The animal's eye is just the right size at present, but the doctors are puzzling themselves to think whether it will grow sufficiently to keep pace with the growth of the girl.

Stockton teacher to boy in grammar class: "John, correct the following sentence: "It are very cold." John, as he wipes the perspiration from his forehead with his shirt sleeve, "It are darned hot."

Philadelphia averages one divorce to every 34 marriages, which is not so very bad. The man who doesn't get bitten but once out of 34 times on a Philadelphia girl may be considered lucky.

Medical, Etc.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.

No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.

Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.

It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.

It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.

The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

It Invigorates the Stomach and stimulates the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.

Two Feuds Settled.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 28.—A special from Abingdon says that Judge George W. Ward, correspondent of the Examiner, and Commonwealth Attorney for Washington county, while about to enter the Colonade Hotel yesterday about 4 p. m., was fired upon by Dr. W. M. White, Independent candidate for State Senator, who had been concealed in a store room nearly opposite the hotel. White stepped out of the door and discharged one barrel of a shotgun loaded with buckshot at Ward, who fell face foremost, but recovering, on his knees, drew his pistol and fired three shots at a young relative of White's, who was on the opposite side of the street, behind a tree.

White had stepped inside the store, but hearing firing came out again, and fired the second barrel at Ward, who fell. While he was lying on the ground, two of White's relatives (one of whom he thought had shot at him), walked up and fired seven shots at him (Ward), all of which took effect.

Ward is in a very critical condition, and it is thought he cannot live. Dr. White and his two relatives have been arrested and were bailed in the sum of $7,000 each. Great excitement exists, but no fear of further violence is entertained.

ANOTHER FEUD SETTLED.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 28.—At daybreak, in this county, Dr. Harris shot and killed Dr. Barton. Both were prominent practitioners in that locality. Particulars of the affair are not at hand, but it is believed to be the result of an old feud.

The Commonwealth vs. the Railroads.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 29.—The cases of the commonwealth against the South Pennsylvania, Northern Central and Beech Creek railroads, came up for argument on a continuation of the preliminary injunction this morning. Hon. Wayne McVeigh spoke for the Pennsylvania, Lyman D. Gilbert for the South Pennsylvania, and S. R. Peale for the Beech Creek. After the calling of the case, Attorney General Cassidy asked for the appointment of an examiner, for the purpose of taking testimony. The court seemed to favor it, but Mr. MacVeigh opposed it, on the ground that it would cause delay and injure to a great extent the interests of the defendants.

The court, however, decided in favor of an examiner, and the parties interested withdrew to decide on the examiner and the time to be allowed him for taking evidence. John H. Weiss, of this city, was then selected Mr. McVeigh then endeavored to limit the time to five days for each case in taking testimony. The court decided to give the commonwealth ten days and the defendants five, it being all the time asked by the latter. All the papers and testimony are to be ready by the 20th of October, when the case is to be ended.

In the case of the Reading railroad against the South Pennsylvania for breach of contract the same order was asked for an examiner, but the defendants objected on the ground that no affidavits warranting it had been filed. The court reserved its decision.

A Fight near Adrianople.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Advices from Bucharist report that during the fighting on Friday near Adrianople thirty Roumelians were killed and three hundred wounded. The Russian commandant of the arsenal at Rustchuk recently permitted a ship laden with arms and ammunition to sail from that port, ostensibly for Antwerp, but really to Bourgas. The Turkish losses in the ten days' fighting at Djrkova were two hundred men. The Albanians lost 1,000 killed.

Servia is negotiating with Roumania and Greece with the view of taking common action against the extension of Bulgarian dominance. King Milan, of Servia, will go to Nissa at once to assume the chief command of the army. General Popovitch, the king's chief ofstaff, with 25,000 troops, is ready to cross the frontier. Servia's circular to the powers states that the recent events in Bulgaria threaten Servian interests, and as a safeguard she asks support of the powers.

A New Trial Asked for Laporte

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Sept. 28.—The counsel for Jack Laporte, who was recently found guilty of murder in the second degree, to-day filed a petition praying for a new trial. The petition will be entertained at the evening session of Argument Court. Judge Laporte and his friends are greatly dissatisfied with the verdict, which was somewhat of a surprise to a great majority of the people, in view of the strong evidence tending to establish Laporte's insanity.

Bob Toombs Growing Worse.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—General Toombs is growing worse. He is really weaker mentally than physically. He speaks of things happening years ago as if it were yesterday. He is too weak to stand, and it is thought by his physicians that he cannot survive long.

Flower Declines.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., September 26.—Mr. Flower has just mailed the following letter:

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 26.—To Hon. George Raines, chairman of the late democratic state convention—Dear Sir: I have learned with regret that the convention over which you lately presided has seen fit to honor me, in opposition to my well-known wishes, with the nomination for the position of lieutenant governor of the state on the ground that my nomination is necessary to the success of the state ticket. While I fully appreciate the cordial and unanimous manner in which this nomination is tendered and the sincerity of the sentiment of the convention toward me, I cannot think that the success of the party can be in any way endangered by the presence or absence of the name of any individual upon its ticket, or that there is any necessity for me to take upon myself the serious duties of a position for which I have no inclination. It would be assuming merit and virtue which I do not possess to believe for an instant that I am more potent to assist the party in this matter than other men, who are better qualified by nature and disposition for the office in question. The principles of the democracy, as set out in our platform, the splendid nominations to the other places on the ticket, and the record of the party both in the state and nation, will in my opinion carry us to victory. Assuring you, therefore, of my hearty support from the ranks of the democracy, I respectfully but positively decline the preferment tendered.

R. P. FLOWER.

Married on the Fair Grounds.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 25.—Thirty thousand persons were witnesses of a marriage ceremony on the Onondaga fair grounds this afternoon, which was performed in response to offers of prizes for such an event. The bride, Emma R. Knapp, of Lafayette, who is about 20 years old, was attended by three bridesmaids. She wore a plum-colored watered silk, while her maids were dressed in white. The groom, Marshall A. Bishop, a prosperous young farmer of the same town, was attended by two of his rural young friends, one of whom wore black gloves. The bride is very pretty and bore the gaze of the crowd with much more composure than the groom. As they appeared on a high platform erected for the purpose, there was a vast uproar of applause from the crowd, who cheered vociferously at various points in the ceremony. When it was over the bride had to endure fifteen minutes of kissing, in which all the officers of the fair, the newspaper reporters, and the people on the platform participated, while the tremendous audience roared with laughter. Nearly every exhibitor on the grounds made presents to the couple, the total value of which was many hundreds of dollars. To-night the pair are guests of one of the principal hotels.

Last Day of the Convention.

READING, Sept. 27.—The Young Men's Christian Association of Pennsylvania held a farewell meeting this evening. During the day services were conducted in nearly all the Protestant churches by the visiting delegates, besides which there were meetnigs in different halls of the city for young men, ladies, boys and railroaders. Services were also held in the jail. Resolutions were adopted to have the Young Men's Christian association incorporated, urging the association to employ a general secretary; declaring that, as the salvation of young men is the aim of the organization, that the association limit their work so as to promote these ends, and requesting the state executive committee to further the work among colored young men, this being a large and important field. The next meeting of the association will be held in Altoona.

The Game at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Ten thousand persons witnessed the game to-day between the New York and Chicago clubs, notwithstanding that the skies were threatening and there was every prospect of rain. Rain drops began to fall as the game began, but it did not interfere with the progress of the game. The game was an enjoyable one for the spectators. There were many remarkable plays and the batting was heavy. The terrific hitting of the Chicago men won the game, they making fourteen hits, with a total of twenty-six bases. This included six three-baggers, three of which were made by Kelley, who scored three of the seven runs made by Chicago.

The score by innings follows:

Chicago	4	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	1—7
New York	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	2	0—4

Two Women Killed and Two Fatally Injured.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 28.—This city is again agitated over four mysterious outrages which were committed west of the Capitol at 2 o'clock this morning. The victims are all colored, and were servants in the employ of Mr. Dunham. Mrs. Gracie Vance and Mrs. Orange Washington were murdered outright, and Lucinda Boddy and Kitty Johnson were fatally injured with an axe. Oliver Townsend, a negro, has been arrested on suspicion, and the police and deputy sheriffs of the city are out in search of other suspected parties.

An Expensive Freight Wreck.

READING, Pa., Sept., 27.—A wreck occurred on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, near Tuckerton, at a late hour last night, caused, it is said, by an open switch. A down coal train jumped the track, and before the engineer could send a man ahead an up train came along and crashed into the wreck. Both engines were demolished and about eighty coal cars were piled up in a confused mass. The tracks were blocked for ten hours. The loss will probably reach $35,000.

Organizing against the Chinese.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Sept. 29.—A large and enthusiastic convention of laborers, called together to devise means for ridding the country of the Chinese, closed at a late hour last night, at Seattle, Washington territory. Delegates were present from labor organizations of the surrounding towns, besides citizens not connected with labor societies. Many speeches were delivered, and each utterance that could be construed to mean the expulsion of Chinese by peaceful means, or, if necessary, by force, was received with applause.

Most of the speakers advocated cool but determined action. Resolutions were adopted declaring that the depressed condition of industries is due to the refusal of congress to legislate in the interest of the people; calling upon all citizens to discharge immediately all Chinese in their employ and providing for the holding of mass meetings in the different localities on October 3 for the purpose of appointing committees to notify the Chinese to leave on or before November 1. The resolutions close by declaring that "we will hold ourselves not responsible for any acts of violence which may arise from non-compliance with the resolutions." The convention then adjourned.

Shot by a Jealous Husband.

YORK, Pa., Sept. 28.—In the boiler shops of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Works this morning, Charles Clinch was shot in the right breast by Thomas Gobert, alias Sponsler. Gobert has been separated from his wife for about six weeks, and alleges that Clinch, who was a boarder in his family, alienated his wife's affections and was the cause of their separation. Clinch's wound is not necessarily mortal. Gobert was knocked down with a hammer in the hands of one of Clinch's fellow workmen and disarmed just in time to prevent his firing a second shot. Employees of the works took him to Police Headquarters.

The European Scourge.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Cholera is declining in Sicily. King Humbert will visit all the infected districts. He has given $25,000 to the sufferers. To-day 162 new cases and 94 deaths were reported at Palermo.

In Spain 690 new cases and 203 deaths occurred on Sunday.

Reports received from various parts of the Alps-Maritimes, the Southernmost department of France, show that cholera is spreading throughout the district.

Silver and Gold in Tioga.

WILLIAMSPORT, Sept. 27.—A correspondent writing from Liberty, Tioga County, says a rich vein of gold and silver quartz rock has been discovered half a mile North of that place, on the road leading to Blossburg. The miners engaged in the search say they have found specimens worth from $40 to $300 per ton. The men engaged in the enterprise are residents of Williamsport. The two miners at work are men who have had considerable experience in gold and silver mining in Colorado.

Mrs. Bulla's Long Fast.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 28.—To-morrow will be the fiftieth day of Mrs. Veronica Bulla's fast. She began abstaining from food on Aug. 10, and nothing but water has since passed her lips. She has lost twenty pounds in weight, and is now too weak to leave her bed, though until a few days ago she could walk about the house. She began to fast on account of some gastric trouble.

Thrown from Her Carriage.

NEWPORT, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt was thrown from her carriage here this evening by one of the horses running away and coming in collision with another team. Her injuries are not believed to be serious, but nothing definite can be learned to-night. The driver of her vehicle was badly cut on the forehead.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

On the Wing.

Among the names placed on the Bush House register Saturday morning were J. W. Wilson, Philadelphia; W M. Leathers, Snow Shoe City; E. R. Williams, New York; W. A. Lothrope and wife, Snow Shoe; W. J. Klingsler, Busler; J. W. Yocum, wife and child, of Columbia.

At the Garman House were Jas. S. McNitt, Milroy; A. B. McNitt, Milroy; Irwin G. Gray and wife, of Stormstown; Mrs. Ross, of Spring Mills; H. B. Wilson, Harrisburg; S. G. McClintic, Spring Mills; Jonathan and D. W. Shank, of Howard.

At the Brockerhoff House were W. C. Patterson, of State College, and David Lery, Philadelphia. Among the guests now at the hotel is Mr. Paul Nicoladse, who we had the pleasure of meeting on Saturday. He is a pleasant and intelligent gentleman with a very romantic and interesting history.

He is the only native Circassian in the United States, and his almost unpronouncable Mohammedan name is Babadjan Hadje Hodaverde Ogloo. When a boy of only eight years he was stolen away from his native home, on the borders of the Black Sea, by the Russians, who carried him to St. Petersburg, where he was trained to be a soldier. At the age of 13 he was made an instructor of the Asiatic languages in the Military Academy at St. Petersburg. Afterwards he became a Lieutenant in the body guard of the Emperor Nicholas. He fought with the Russians in the Crimean war but, disliking service in the Russian army, he deserted to the English. He came to this country at the close of the late Civil war, in 1865, and has remained in the United States ever since. Mr. Nicoladse is a ripe scholar and a great linguist, being able to converse fluently in thirteen different languages—four European and nine Asiatic. He was one of the four scholars who assisted in translating the Bible into the Arabic language. He will remain in Bellefonte about one week.

Chiefly About a Squirrel Hunt.

BAILEYVILLE, Sept. 23d, '85.

The farmers of this vicinity are through with the unpleasant job of topping and cutting their corn.

Mr. J. M. Goheen and T. M. Gates were "courting" in Huntingdon on the 17th inst. They were very much pleased with the trip and also with the proceedings of court.

Mr. R. H. Stewart, of Penn'a Furnace, and Miss Mollie Lower, of Warriorsmark, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the bride's home to-day by the Rev. J. C. Kelley, of Penn'a Furnace. The happy couple received numerous and valuable presents from their host of friends. We wish you a happy married life, Rob, and offer you our congratulations. The happy couple intend spending their honeymoon at the groom's home in Lewistown after which they intend to begin housekeeping at Pennsylvania Furnace.

As squirrels are scarce and hunters numerous this year, there is abundant material for hunting stories (we mean true ones). On the morning of the first day of the squirrel season Mr. E. R. M., with gun in hand and fire in eye, journeyed to the haunts of the frisky squirrel, with expectations of dining on squirrel on toast. The expectant hunter wended his joyous way through the dewy woods which had once teemed with the frisky little animals, but, alas for the hunter's hopes, the once happy hunting grounds were now barren of game of any description. We will give the story as we heard it from the hunter himself. "I had traveled for about two hours and was thinking of going home and writing the tale of my adventures to "Dolly" (oh, excuse us, Ed, I am drifting from the course of my story), when, lo and behold, right in my course was—what do you think? Nothing more or less than an enormous chipmunk. Quickly taking aim, I fired, when the man, oh, where was he? Ask of the ground which far around with fragments of the gun was strewn. From last accounts the patient was able to walk as far as the Baileyville mills, where he is making good progress in learning the milling trade—so they say. Well, Ed, if you have any more adventures you want published just send them in to headquarters. OCCASIONAL.

—A gentleman having a large business interest on Water street, north of High, very properly complains of the condition of that street. He has, at his own expense, cleaned up in front of his establishment, but the thoroughfare all the way to High street, is filled with debris, rendering it almost impassable. Council also neglects its duty in compelling property owners to lay boardwalks in front of their premises. Mr. Blair owns a dwelling house in that vicinity which should have a walk in front of it The gentleman of the council are requested to at once give this matter their attention as the street is a disgrace to a civilized community.

—A dispatch from Huntingdon to the Philadelphia Times, about the Laporte murder trial, refers in the following complimentary words to Judge Furst: "His charge to the jury was very able and elaborate and occupied nearly two hours in its delivery. It was full and explicit as to the law of homicide and of direct and circumstantial evidence. The facts of the case were reviewed at length with further applications of the law. It was so impartial that it was impossible to draw any inference as to his opinion of the grade of the crime and any difference in the minds of the jurors at its beginning probably remained at its conclusion."

—Ed. Speer has been heard from again, and he states in a letter to a friend in this place that he is a full-fledged "cow boy and eats snakes. He is also a Notary Public, and will soon open a Collection County Warrant and real estate office at Norton, Kansas. He is located in a fast growing town, there having been erected within a week ten new houses. There are two large elevators being erected and a new depot. We have every reason to hope that Ned will be successful in his new enterprise.

—Miss Mothersbaugh, sister of Dr. Mothersbaugh, of Beech Creek, returned to her home yesterday after a pleasant visit at the home of her friend, Miss Minnie Rhinesmith, of Boiling Springs.

—Major Geo. A. Hilton, of Washington, D. C., will deliver a free lecture on "The question of the day" on Friday evening. Gov. Curtin is personally and well acquainted with Major Hilton, and speaks in the highest terms of him and of the good work he does. The Wheeling (W. Va.) Intelligencer says: "Commercial Hall, Martin's Ferry, was packed to hear Major Hilton, who delivered one of the ablest addresses ever heard in the town. It is still the subject of praise on all sides."

SINCE the death of Jumbo various statements have been published as to the exact stature of that giant elephant. The figures range from eleven feet to eleven feet and a half, but whether the height given is that at the shoulder does not appear. If Jumbo was eleven feet and six inches high at the shoulder there is reason to believe that he was the largest land animal in the world. It is very rare for elephants to be found in either Africa or India that are more than eleven feet in height.

EMORY STORES enjoyed an income of $25,000 to $30,000 a year, earned at the Chicago bar, and yet he was always out of money and in debt. It is said that he habitually drew on Samuel W. Allerton, a millionaire friend, who never failed him in his frequent emergencies. This friend helped him out of the dilemma when at the time of sitting down to a dinner to Lord Coleridge, an unfriendly Sheriff seized the viands.

—While Mr. Jno. P. Harris and his son Eddie were in Philadelphia attending the State Fair the latter became very ill with inflammation of the bowels. His father brought him home yesterday morning and he was carried from the train to the house in an easy chair. With the proper care which home treatment will ensure him he will doubtless soon get well again.

Chicago News.

"Hubby, who is John L. Sullivan?"

"He is a Boston pugilist, my dear."

"And who is the Puritan?"

"Why, the Puritan is a Boston yacht."

"Well, I thought so; but this paper says the Puritan struck a swell, and I didn't know but I had them mixed."

A Matter of Taste.

Young lady—We had a delightful time at Music Hall last evening, Mr. Dumley. It was a Meyerbeer night, you know. Are you fond of Meyerbeer?

Mr. Dumley (hesitatingly)—Yes, but I think I would just as soon have Milwaukee.

—A dancing party took place last evening at the home of Mr. Rhobaugh, who resides on the Gordon farm, near town.

—Judge Jno. Orvis, who is still quite ill, was taken to Philadelphia on Tuesday for treatment.

—The past week has been one of the lovellest of the year.

Reduced to Ashes.

Professor Wood and his assistant agents, with a number of butchers, on Thursday last, stood around the departed Jumbo, at St. Thomas, Ont., to take off his skin and dissect out his bones. The dead monster drew crowds to the last, and there were hundreds on the ground to take a farewell view. It was supposed that the exhibition would be free, but that was not the case. Some enterprising individual had secured the privilege of collecting an admission fee. Policemen were placed at suitable points to keep out the crowd except at the field gate, where admittance was gained by paying 5 cents.

Jumbo still lay on the side of the bank in an admirable position to be advantageously skinned. Two of his legs were so placed that they held him on the incline. The taxidermists and butchers cut down the back and took off half the skin. Then they disjointed the two legs which held him to the bank, after which he was rolled over without difficulty, and that part of the task was accomplished. The work of dissecting the huge bones was more difficult, and it required all the ingenuity of Professor Wood to devise means to handle the immense limbs and masses of muscle.

While this was being accomplished, in accordance with the order of the health inspector, about four cords of wood were procured and the funeral pyre built. The body of the great Jumbo was soon laid on this and slowly reduced to ashes.

Philipsburg Pointers.

Quite a scene occurred on Presqueisle street on Friday morning. It appears an article appeared in the Journal that did not meet the approval of a certain journeyman tailor. The result was as follows: The abused gentleman stopped "ye local" on the pavement while he was wending his way to the place of his daily avocation, and began to use very strong language toward the quill shover, which he thought had gone quite far enough, when one word and another soon brought things to a climax. The result was a regular old-fashioned knock down, after much talk had been indulged in. As everybody admits, the tailor got worsted. One thing is sure—the tailor was under while the other could have used him up badly had he been so inclined, but it is much better the way it is, to our thinking. Tally one for Mitchell!

Pennsylvania State Fair—Novelties Exhibition—Excursion Rates and Special Trains.

The grounds of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society, at Germantown Junction, Philadelphia, were opened to the public on the 23d of September, and the exhibition is the best ever held under their auspices. The space for display has been largely increased, the accommodations of all kinds improved, and arrangements made for special exhibitions and races that are sure to be attractive. The departments are all filled, and exhibits both from home and abroad form a collection of unsurpassed excellence. The live stock department is particularly notable, as it contains some of the most famous horses identified with the American turf. Entries for the races promise fine sport, and the dog show has representatives of the choicest breeds of the world. The display of flowers and fruits is larger than ever before and the ladies' departments unusually attractive.

The Novelties Exhibition is well under way. The large buildings are filled with all descriptions of machines, models, and appliances of advanced mechanics, novel exhibitions of innumerable kinds, and special displays of curious and interesting objects. No better opportunity to study the progress of industrial science and mechanics could be enjoyed, nor does any other exhibition afford so much that is interesting and instructive to the general visitor. Afternoons and evenings are enlivened by fine music.

For the benefit of visitors to the two attractions the Pennsylvania Railroad Company are selling excursion tickets at reduced rates. Special trains are also being run from different portions of their territory, for particulars of which the public are advised to consult the advertising bills and the agents of the company.

Platform of the Pennsylvania National Greenback Labor Party—1885.

The National Greenback Labor party of Pennsylvania, in convention at Erie, August 12th, declare:

PREAMBLE—We denounce in unmeasured terms the policy established by the Republican party and readopted by the present Democratic administration of hoarding hundreds of millions of the people's money upon various pretexts, of discriminating against silver, and of contraction in various ways, and declare that it has wrought more ruin to our industries and produced more suffering among the masses than tongue or pen can tell; it has depreciated all values while appreciating all money obligations, thus enabling a few money owners to absorb the wealth of the nation and leave people homeless and penniless. We therefore demand that the idle money now in the treasury be forthwith applied to the payment of the interest bearing obligations of the government.

1. We reaffirm the platform of the party adopted at Indianapolis in June, 1884.

2. That we demand the issuance of full legal tender money by the government instead of the present national bank currency, and the free coinage of silver on equal terms with gold, and that a volume of money be issued in sufficient quantity to supply the actual demands of trade and commerce in accordance with the population and the development of our industries and resources.

3. We demand the prompt and complete enforcement of the constitution prohibiting discriminations, combinations, and consolidations by the chartered corporations of this State.

4. We demand the immediate payment of all government bonds as fast as they become due in legal tender money.

5. We demand that both national and State governments recognize the right of petition at all times, and that this right shall never be abridged.

6. That we demand the enforcement of the law prohibiting the importation of contract or pauper labor.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That we demand the forfeiture of all illegal, inequitable and unearned land grants and seizures and demand the opening of said land for actual settlers only.

Resolved, That we condemn the contract labor system.

Resolved, That the action of the 104 members of the Pennsylvania Assembly in supporting the bill providing for the shortening of the hours of labor to eight hours for a legal day's work meets with our hearty approval.

Resolved, That we believe it constitutional for the government to construct a system of railroads to be operated at cost in the interest of all citizens, and in view of the encroachments of our chartered companies we believe it politic to do so.

Health—Strength—Long Life

SECURED BY THE USE OF

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites;

Nature's BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This preparation is one of the greatest triumphs of modern chemical science. It is at the same time a remedial agent, and a natural food. It restores exhausted and wasted functions of the brain and nerves, and its daily use, while in health will prevent such exhaustion and waste. This is the only preparation of Phosphorous that has received the approbation of the entire medical profession in this country and in Europe,

Over a MILLION PACKAGES have been prescribed by Physicians in the United States.

SETIHP-SOH PHOS-PHITES

CROSBY'S Vitalized Phosphites

Is a phosphoid or nerve-giving principle extracted from the ox brain and and wheat germ! It does not contain any of the animal substance of the brain, but the phosphoric principles dissolved in boiling alcohol and filtered from the brain substance. It is passed through felt filters, carefully dried and mixed with a little oven-dried flour from the germ of the wheat. Ephraim Cutter, A. M., M. D., in his microscopic analysis, testifies that it contains none of the substance of the ox brain; the active phosphites only are present.

By a careful and elaborate chemical analysis made by Prof. Percy, it was proved to be composed of the vital and nerve-giving principles of animal and vegetable life. The brains of animals and of fish contain an oily, nitrogenous hypo-phosphite, which, when separated from the fleshy part of the brain, is found to be a nerve-sustaining principle of animal life. It is entirely different in its effects from any compound made by chemists in the laboratory; the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE contains in the highest degree this life-sustaining power; it requires no preparation or change in the stomach, but is in condition to be immediately assimilated into the blood, and ready for appropriation by the brain and nerves; it is essentially a special Brain and Nerve Food. Nature, not art, has prepared it for immediate assimilation.

In many forms of disease the digestion is so imperfect that chemical compounds, or even food, is not digested well enough to be assimilated and changed into blood. This VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE needs no digestion, it is assimilated at once, because it is in the exact condition found in all nervous structure, and is deposited in the nerve structure in the same condition as it was taken from it.

WHY HAVE PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBED OVER HALF A MILLION PACKAGES OF VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES

And found this Brain and Nerve Food indispensible in the treatment of all diseases of debility, and in all mental or nervous disorders?

Because it is not a secret remedy; they know what they are prescribing; the formula is on every package. Because it is one of those perfect preparations that seldom disappoint them.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1882.

I have prescribed your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES extensively for the past seven years. I have found it invaluable in the treatment of debility, in diseases of the nervous system, and as a Tonic where the vital forces were at a low ebb. E. W. FINCH, M. D.

LANDON B. EDWARDS, M. D., Editor of the Virginia Medical Monthly, says: "I have prescribed VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES in several instances, and have also induced friends to use it. Our successes will make us prescribe it frequently."

AM. METALINE CO., 204 Greene St., N. Y.

Some three years ago my friend DR. STEARNS, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum in Hartford, told me how highly he prized VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES, and advised me to use the remedy with my many friends suffering with overwork of the brain. Knowing that I was one of the "overworked," I made the first trial on myself. The change in my health within two months after taking it was so satisfactory that I continue its use from time to time whenever I need it. I have not had a severe headache since I began its use; it was my great trouble before. I have prescribed it for very many of my friends—young, middle-aged and old—and in every case with benefit. You have given me a Brain Food in the only condition in which it can be constantly taken without danger. Many medical men whom I have induced to use it on themselves now use it regularly in their practice. S. GWYNN, M. D.

GARRETTSVILLE, Ohio, June 28, 1882.

F. CROSBY Co.,

Gentlemen: Several years ago when suffering from congestion of the vessels at the base of the brain, resulting in terrible mental depression, Dr. Leonard Sanford, of the Yale Medical College, prescribed for me the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. The effect was excellent, beyond all expectation; in two weeks I was a new man. Since my recovery I have recommended it to a number of my professional and other friends suffering from overwork, brain exhaustion, sleeplessness, spinal and nervous troubles and kindred complaints, and in many of these instances I have seen its good results. I have intended for some time to write to you in acknowledgement of the good effects, but I suppose you are overcrowded with letters of this sort.

R. A. TORREY, M. D.

TALLADEGA, Ala.

F. CROSBY Co.: I am wonderfully pleased with the effects of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. It is the best remedy I have ever used for Nervous Debility. For the enclosed money, please send me more by this day's mail. PAUL GIST, M. D.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio.

F. CROSBY: I have prescribed over 700 bottles of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE, and know it to be of the greatest value in restoring lost energy, relieving debility, nervousness, and preventing consumption.

Dissatisfied Strikers.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 25.—Notwithstanding the concession made by President Chisholm, of the Cleveland rolling mill company, the strike is not over. A committee of idle workmen, accompanied by the mayor, called on Mr. Chisholm to-day with a paper which they wished him to sign. They demanded that every striker be taken back; that proper notices be made hereafter when a reduction in wages are proposed, and that Mr. Chisholm hereafter listen personally to the grievances of the men who think they have been discharged without reason. Mr. Chisholm agreed to all the demands except the first. He said that of the 4,000 strikers, one thousand would have to seek employment elsewhere, as the mills would positively not be run to their greatest capacity. The company had been out of market so long that a new trade would have to be worked up. In time perhaps all the men, except the men who had maligned him personally would be given positions. The committee were dissatisfied with the interview. To-night a meeting of strikers was held at the town hall in Newburg. The leaders knowing that they are the men whom the company will not again employ, made patheticspeeches about the thousand who were to be "murdered," as they termed it, and the strikers fell in with the leaders and declared that all should remain out if all were not given the opportunity to take their old places.

The Y. M. C. A. in Session.

READING, Sept. 24.—The eighteenth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian association of Pennsylvania opened here to-day and will continue four days. George McCauley, of Harrisburg, presided. Nearly two hundred delegates, representing associations and colleges and railroad employes' organizations, are present. Rev. Dr. William O'Kirk, of this city, delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mr. McCauley. Discussion then followed on "What benefit has your association derived from state conventions?"

After adjournment a banquet was given in honor of the delegates by the ladies of Reading. This evening Professor W. H. Richards, of Allentown, spoke on the agency of the church to reach young men.

A Death-warrant for Curtin McClain.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—Governor Pattison to-day ordered a death-warrant to issue in the case of Curtin McClain, of Mifflin county, fixing the 19th of November next for his execution. This action was taken after he had listened to the appeals for mercy by the wife and mother of the condemned. They pleaded for an opportunity to be again heard before the Board of Pardons, promising to produce new evidence to show McClain's innocence. An important letter favorable to the prisoner is said to be in possession of Judge Bucher, of Union county. The Governor deferred the time of the execution far enough to enable the case to be heard at the regular meeting of the board if thought necessary.

Roswell P. Flower.

SARATOGA, Sept. 25.—All other candidates for lieutenant governor were withdrawn and Roswell P. Flower was nominated by acclamation amid the wildest enthusiasm. Mr. Rosenthal, of Monroe, then nominated Frederick Cook, of Rochester, for secretary of state, and after a vote his nomination was made unanimous. A. A. Chapin, the present incumbent, was nominated for comptroller by acclamation. Dennis O'Brien was renominated for attorney general. Lawrence J. Fitzgerald, of Cortland, was nominated for state treasurer by acclamation. Nathan Sweet, of Albany, was nominated for state engineer and surveyor.

Fire in Some Lumber Yards.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A fire broke out this afternoon in the lumber yard of Charles S. Gardner & Co., on South Ashland avenue, near West Twenty-second street. A high wind fanned the fire into a high blaze and the air was filled with large pieces of burning wood. The wildest excitement prevailed, many persons seeming to anticipate a repetition of the great fire of 1871. Three alarms were sent out to the fire department, and by the persistent work of a large number of engines it was finally got under control, after it had communicated to and enveloped the lumber yards of C. B. Flynn & Co., and the John Spry lumber company. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Sudden Death of a Priest.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 23.—Rev. Father Edward Burke, of St. James' Catholic church, Wilkinsburg, died very suddenly last evening. He had just finished his supper and while sitting in his arm chair, died without any of the occupants of the house knowing it. Father Burke was about 50 years of age, and had founded St. James eight years ago. He was beloved by his congregation.

A Successful Balloon Voyage.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—Professor Alfred Moore made an ascension in his balloon yesterday at the Waterford fair grounds. The balloon rose rapidly, reaching a height of 6,200 feet. A stiff southwesterly breeze was blowing, and at 4.10 the balloon landed at North Guilford, forty-six miles southeast of Watertown. The sail was made in 35 minutes.

New York Nominations.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 23, 11:30 p. m.—A ballot has just been taken in the republican convention. Davenport has 215 and Carr 195, a loss for Carr of about 10 votes. Drexel's friends are said to be sure to go to Davenport. The official vote on the first ballot was as follows:

Davenport	214	Carr	194
Steward	54	Bliss	66
Warren	130	Morton	8
Evarts	1	Swinburne	29
Drexel	12	Cornell	1

Total number of votes cast, 693; necessary for a choice, 347.

A second ballot was then ordered, but before the result had been footed up Mr. Arkell, who has been managing the Drexel canvas, announced that Montgomery county would cast its vote for Ira Davenport. Lewis county then changed her entire vote to Davenport, as did also Jefferson, and finally, amid the utmost enthusiasm, the nomination of Ira Davenport was made unanimous.

After the first place had been thus filled the entire convention commenced yelling, "Carr" for second place, when his name was advanced, and he was at once nominated by acclamation for lieutenant governor.

Anso S. Wood, of Franklin county, was nominated for secretary of state by acclamation. Joseph W. Wadsworth, of Livingston county, was nominated for comptroller by acclamation.

The ticket was completed as follows: State treasurer, Major Charles Ulrich, of New York; attorney general, Edward B. Thomas, of Chenango county; state engineer, William P. Van Rensselaer.

The convention adjourned sine die.

New York Democrats.

SARATOGA, Sept. 24.—The democratic state convention was called to order at 12.30 this afternoon by Chairman John O'Brien, of the state committee, who nominated George Raines, of Monroe county, for temporary chairman. The gentleman was elected by acclamation and was at once escorted to the chair, when he made a brief speech. Representatives of the Anti Monopoly league and the State Trade assembly then addressed the convention briefly. Burke Cochran offered strong resolutions against civil service, which were greeted with tremendous applause. These resolutions are similar to those adopted by Tammany hall some weeks ago. At 2 15 the convention adjourned until 7.30 this evening.

In the evening J. E. O'Connor, of Chemung, nominated Governor Hill, and as soon as he mentioned his name the convention burst forth in wild yells and cries of "He's our next governor!" Daniel Lockwood, of Erie, seconded the nomination of Mr. Hill amid great enthusiasm. His speech was construed to voice the sentiments of President Cleveland respecting the governorship. Burke Cochran also seconded the nomination of Hill. A delegate here moved to nominate Hill by acclamation, but Senator Ecclesin was recognized and he supported the nomination of Hill. Downs, of Broome, followed for Hill and he predicted that he would fall on the other party like a mountain on election day. (Laughter and applause.) Mr. Griffith, who had made the struggle for an adjournment, announced that Jefferson county recognized the wish of the party and was cheerfully for Hill.

Kings county and Tammany hall followed pronouncing for Hill. Three cheers for Hill were again given and a ballot was then taken. The result was announced: Hill 338, Hewitt 33, Slocum 8, Flower 1. The whole number of votes cast 390. Necessary to a choice 193. Governor Hill was thereupon declared, amid great enthusiasm, to be the nominee of the convention and the bands struck up lively tunes at the same time in different ends of the hall. The convention then adjourned until morning.

Panic at Barnum's Circus.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 23.—Barnum's show exhibited here to-day, and during the afternoon performance a cyclone struck the tents, carrying them in balloon shape. The canvas afterwards collapsed on the many people in attendance. There were 10,000 tickets sold, but many persons perceiving the storm approaching made for the open air leaving about three thousand under the canvas. No one was killed, but many were injured. Ambulances were immediately sent to the circus and all the doctors in the city were soon on the ground. The majority of those seriously hurt are farmers living within a radius of twenty mile, while a few live in the city.

The storm was very similar to that which occurred at Cortlandt, N. Y., last year. The tent was torn into shreds, and the centre-poles fell, breaking arms and limbs, cutting people's heads open, and causing a terrible stampede. The seats were thrown about, women fainted, children screamed, and even strong men realized that it was a case of life or death. Many were injured from falling and being trampled upon by the crowd.

In the menagerie the elephants got loose but were quieted before any serious damage was done. The monkey cage was broken open and a few of the monkeys gained their liberty. The wires of another cage containing wild animals, were broken, but the keepers kept the beasts in till assistance arrived.

Invested with the Purple.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24.—Rev. Edward McColgan, Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Baltimore and pastor of St. Peter's Church, was to-day invested with the purple rochet and mantilla of a monsignor of the Catholic Church. Archbishop Gibbons blessed the vestments and made the address appropriate to the occasion. Pontifical Mass was celebrated by Bishop Becker, of Wilmington. Bishops O'Sullivan, of Mobile, and Northup, of North Carolina; Monsignor Quinn, of New York, and a large number of the clergy participated. The ceremony was at St. Peter's Church.

Teller Merrill's Suicide.

WARREN, Pa., Sept. 23.—The excitement is great over the suicide last night of A. G. Merrill, teller of the Warren Savings Bank. Mr. Merrill had been taking a vacation for a week and was to resume his duties in the bank to day. Yesterday morning he asked the servant girl for the kerosene can and proceeded to clean up an old revolver that had not been used for a long time. Afterwards he went up town and, returning about two o'clock, said he was going to lie down to rest. He went into his room and locked the door. About three o'clock the servant girl heard a pistol-shot, but thought nothing of it. About five o'clock one of the Misses Merrill, with whom he resided, went to call him, but received no answer. Becoming alarmed the ladies forced open the door and found him lying upon the bed. The curtain was down, making the room rather dark. Thinking he was asleep an attempt was made to arouse him and failing in this a message was sent to Dr. Baker, while the women of the house chafed his hands, thinking he must be very ill. When the doctor arrived he raised the window-curtain, which revealed a wound in Merrill's temple and the revolver lying near by on the bed. The doctor said he had been dead about two hours.

Work of the Salvation Army.

BRIDGETON, Sept. 22.—Cumberland county has seen more of the Salvation Army than any other county in South Jersey. The Millville soldiers have managed to keep on good terms with the citizens, but there has been more or less trouble at all the barracks. Last Saturday night there was a row at Vineland, blows were struck and several parties were arrested. The Mayor has forbidden further street parades by the Army and more arrests may follow. The trouble in the camp here has culminated in Captain Figley running away and taking the funds of the Army with him, and it is also charged that he enticed away a married woman of Bridgeton, a recent convert to the Army. The parties are supposed to be in Philadelphia, but no efforts have been made to secure their arrest.

Desperate Prisoners Break Jail.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 15.—While Sheriff McMillan was absent from the jail last night, Peter Baker and Emanuel Johnson, prisoners, made a desperate attack on the turnkey and broke out of the building, accompanied by Charles Baker, Peter Kruizer, William V. Dye, Daniel Davis and Henry Kennedy, white, and Gertrude Seller and John Thomas, colored, all of whom were confined on various charges. The turnkey was badly beaten, but in a short time headed a party and started in pursuit of the convicts. Several of them are desperate men and they will not be captured without a desperate fight. Up to a late hour last night the men had not been taken.

Convicts Swapping Clothing with Actors.

GALVESTON, Sept. 22.—A special to the News from Hearne says: Ten convicts escaped from the plantation of William Hearne, in Brazos bottom, near here, yesterday morning by cutting through the roof of the prison house. They made their way to town, and entering the Montgomery House while the guests were slumbering, stole the garments of the male members of the Stuttz theatrical company, leaving the convicts' suits behind. They also took two gold watches. They escaped to the woods. A large posse started in pursuit of them, and it was reported last night that four of the convicts had been taken. The posse is still out.

Hazing at Princeton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Freshman Alexander, of Princeton College, son of Trustee Henry M. Alexander, was hazed on Wednesday and Thursday nights last week, and again on Sunday night. The hazers compelled him to write to his father that he had been playing cards and throwing dice, and that the sophomores had taken care of him. Mr. Alexander hastened to Princeton and, after taking testimony for some time, David G. Adler, of Philadelphia; Alexander Britton, of Washington; O. H. Harvey, of Baltimore, and Robert F. Tod were indefinitely suspended. President McCosh says the investigations will follow as fast as the guilty ones are found out.

Murder in the Second Degree.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Sept. 24.—10 p. m.—The great murder trial of John Laporte, son of Judge Laporte, of this county, is ended and the defendant has been found guilty of murder in the second degree. After deliberating on the evidence only three hours and fifteen minutes the jury returned with their verdict at 8.30 o'clock to-night. When the verdict was announced by Foreman Dunkle, the prisoner manifested no concern whatever, but when his sister congratulated him she remarked, "Why John, how cold your hands are," showing how well he had concealed his feelings. His counsel are disappointed at the verdict.

A Luckless Flying Machine.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 23.—While Professor Frederick Bahr's flying machine was being inflated this morning the strong wind blew it against a stake and tore a large hole in it. The balloon is being repaired to-night, and it is expected that it will be ready for inflation to-morrow afternoon or Friday morning. Several hundred people were disappointed.

A Bar of Gold.

HALIFAX, Sept. 22.—The largest bar of gold ever seen in Nova Scotia was brought to Halifax yesterday from the New Albion mines at Montague. It weighed 1,054¼ ounces, being the product of 14 days' crushing in a twelve-stamp mill, and is valued at $20,618.

Could not use His Telephone.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Jules Beer refused to pay the Chicago Telephone Company $60 for rent on the telephone in his store on the ground that the instrument never operated satisfactorily. The company obtained judgment before a police magistrate, and Beer appealed the case. The company tried to prove that Beer did not know how to use a telephone. Evidence was submitted that Beer had talked in the instrument properly. The jury returned a verdict in favor of Beer.

The Jewels Not for Mr. Cox.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 24.—The American newspapers have reached here containing a report to the effect that when Mr. Cox, the United States minister, presented his credentials to the Sultan, he was presented with some valuable jewelry for himself and rare oriental books for Mr. Abram S. Hewitt. Mr. Cox says this is an error, that both the jewelry and books were presented to Mr. Cox for Mr. Hewitt. He received nothing for himself.

The Christine Nilsson Catastrophe.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 24.—In addition to the seventeen persons crushed to death in the jam of people in front of Mme. Nilsson's hotel yesterday, twenty-nine others were seriously injured. Mme. Nilsson is so prostrated by the shock that she has temporarily postponed the fulfilment of her engagements.

The Purchaser of the Puritan.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—It is now stated that the yacht Puritan was bought for Charles J. Paine of Nahant, owner of the yacht Halcyon, and one of the syndicate that built the Puritan.

The Rock Springs Massacre.

The situation at Rock Springs Wyoming, continues to be dangerous and unsatisfactory, and the action taken concerning the late shameful massacre of Chinese is so inadequate as to challenge the sharpest criticism. The official agents of the Chinese Government have visited the scene of the outrage, and Colonel Bee, the Chinese Consul at San Francisco, who is himself an American lawyer, has been making inquiries, the result of which emphasizes the necessity for Federal intervention. The plain truth appears to be that no dependence can be placed apon the local authorities for justice. This is perfectly intelligible under the circumstances. The white miners who committed the crime dominate the neighborhood. The whole committee is directly or indirectly interested in them. They furnish business to the store and saloon keepers, and the prosperity of the place depends almost entirely upon their success in driving out the Chinese, whose trade is not as a rule worth having, and who, moreover, are not physically capable of defending themselves. For these reasons it is probably futile to expect any serious prosecution of the murderers by their neighbors; in fact, Colonel Bee asserts that there are miners on the Grand Jury.

Something really unique is a toilette of plain and fancy woolen goods, with an upper garment which is neither one nor the other and yet is a mixture of the jacket and polonaise. The bodice opens in the shape of a jacket with a round basque, but it is continued into a tunic skirt falling in loose folds at the sides; between these points is a plain piece which comes up to the waist and appears to be the lining of the skirt, showing the draped points; this is of the plain material. The underskirt is also of the plain material and is pleated in flat pleats in the front only, and is simply gathered at the sides and back. The bodice opening with the revers of the brocaded material, shows a plain vest of the same fastened down in front with a double row of very small buttons; it is finished at the top by a plain collar band. The plain sleeve is completed with pointed turned up revers of brocade, which simulate cuff.

"I never patronize Patent Medicines." Don't you? Why not? You patronize "patent" articles of a hundred varieties—why not patent medicines. "Because they are often worthless." True, but not always. Frequently they are the very best in the world, representing the widest experience. At least we know that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is one of these, and for all troubles of the blood, liver and urinary organs it stands on its merits, and not on advertising.

She did not mean it, but he took it as a hint. It was getting very late, and suddenly the gas brightened up very much. "Why, what is that?" he asked. "Everybody in the neighborhood is going to bed," she answered.

Hay Fever Cured by Cream Balm.

I have been a periodical sufferer from Hay Fever since the summer of 1879, and, until I used Ely's Cream Balm, I was never able to find any relief. I can say that Cream Balm cured me.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y. 17-35-4t.

C., who is one of the most successful temperance speakers in the country. He also has a vast fund of information on the subject, having been for eight years in the office of Internal Revenue at Washington.

—A dispatch to the REPUBLICAN from Houtzdale says: A terrible accident occurred here Tuesday morning in the Franklin colliery, at 7 o'clock. John Meagher, James Forsythe, Custer Foley, a (Hungarian), and an unknown man were working in what is known as a dip. Two (2) men were driving a heding above them, and cut through into an old heding, and the water rushed in and drowned the four (4) men. About 15 acres of water from the old mines are running in where the men are and there is no prospect of getting them out for a week. All the men are married and one man's wife has lost her mind since the accident.

Wedding at Boalsburg.

The gentle ripple of subdued excitement which was agitating the bosom of society in the pretty little village of Boalsburg, burst the banks of expectation and entered into the full realization of a bright and happy scene at the residence of Mrs. Sarah Rankin, on Wednesday at the hour of noon, it being the wedding ceremony which united her only daughter, Isabella J. Rankin, and Mr. Edward P. McIntire, of Altoona, in the bonds of matrimony. It had long been suspected that sly Cupid had been playing his pranks in that locality, but until the little white messengers went flying about with their tidings some ten days ago, most friends were in doubt as to the date of the celebration.

Mr. W. M. Ermine, of Supt. R. G. Ford's office at Bellwood, Pa., acted as groomsman, and Miss Bertha Riley, also of Bellwood, was bridesmaid. The parlor, where the ceremony was to take place was a perfect bower of beauty, it being tastefully decorated with choice flowers and vines. "Old Sol" was completely shut out, and the light came from numerous lamps which shed their sparkling rays upon the scene. Mr. Frank McFarlane and Jack Mitchell were ushers. About seventy-five guests were present, and as the appointed hour approached, as many as could assembled in the parlor and front hall.

Promptly at twelve o'clock the signal was given, and as the inspiring strains of Wagner's wedding march from Lohengrin resounded through the rooms the bridal procession started from a room at the rear of the house, passed through the dining room and entered the parlor and formed a group just before a back-ground of beautiful flowers arranged between the two front windows. Rev. Dr. Hamill, of Lemont, in his low voice and earnest and impressive manner, went through the marriage ceremony. The bride looked very pretty dressed in white albatros trimmed with handsome lace, with surah silk vest, and carried cut flowers. The groom wore black broadcloth. The bridesmaid wore cream colored albatros trimmed in lace, and also carried flowers. The groomsman wore black. Congratulations were showered upon the happy couple, which were received by smiles and pleasant words. About ten young men served as waiters, and small tables were scattered through the rooms, about which the entire company were comfortably seated. The refreshments were delicious, consisting of cold turkey, ham, sandwiches, rusks, chicken salad and coffee, followed by cakes in all varieties, ice cream and fruits. After this pleasant ordeal had been gone through with, the bride retired and changed her bridal dress for a handsome traveling suit of mulet brown, bonnet and gloves to match. At about half past two the bride and groom, with friends who were returning home, entered the hack, owned and driven by Mr. J. Harman of Lemont, amid a perfect shower of rice and old shoes, and were driven to Bellefonte, where they took the 5:20 train for Philadelphia. From there they will visit in Chambersburg, then return to Altoona and Boalsburg. The groom is an estimable young man with many friends who will rejoice with him in his new found happiness. His home was formerly in Chambersburg, but for a number of years he has resided in Altoona. He is a machinist by trade and considered a very fine workman, he will be remembered by many Bellefonte friends as he resided here one year when the Novelty Works were in operation. The bride is possessed of many good qualities, which will make her a delightful companion. Her large circle of friends at home will be sorry to part with her society.

An elegant display of presents in the upper hall testified to the esteem the friends felt for the contracting parties. They were far too numerous to be enumerated, and consisted of every thing useful and ornamental. Two cash presents were given. One envelope contained money from Mr. and Mrs. McIntire, father and mother of the groom, and another from Frank and Nettie McFarlane. The relatives from a distance were Mrs. McIntire, Mr. and Mrs. Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Everhart, of Altoona, Mr. John Riley, of Bellwood, Mr. Riley Cramer of Johnstown, Pa.

The REPUBLICAN extends its heartiest congratulations to the happy couple, and hopes as they journey down the turnpike of life that they may find plenty of sunshine, and stumble over no stone of adversity, and that the dust of discontent may never settle upon them.

—On Wednesday, the 23d, Miss Mary C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Lower, of Warriorsmark, was married to Mr. R. H. Stewart, of Pennsylvania Furnace. Rev. J. C. Kelly, of Pennsylvania Furnace, officiated. The attendants were Messrs. M. J. Watt and D. J. Bachman and Misses Sallie Rider and Blanche Patterson.

The Late William Laurie, Jr.

The following remarks on the death of William Laurie, Jr., are from the Philipsburg Ledger:

The deceased was born in Philadelphia, Sept. 2d, 1858. When he came to Philipsburg in Sept., 1879, he came from Bellefonte, to which place his father, the Rev. Wm. Laurie, Sr., had removed to accept the pastorate of the Presbyterian church, and which position he still holds. Will came here to enter the service of Jno. M. Hale, as book-keeper in that gentleman's hardware store. On July 1, 1884, Mr. Hale took him into partnership. On Sept. 4th, '84, he was married to Miss Jessie, youngest daughter of Mrs. Margaret Crissman, a lady fitted in every way to adorn his life and help make his future happy and useful. Last winter he contracted a severe cold which settled in his lungs, and although he strove bravely against the disease, by January of the present year his declining health was perceptible to his friends, and by their urgent advice, in Feb'y., he went to Aiken, S. C., to try the effect of the climate. The improvement was not great, and in May the heart sick, home-sick invalid returned home to Philipsburg to die. His decline has been rapid, but notwithstanding the dread knowledge that the canker worm of decay was gnawing at his vitals, and with his doom constantly staring him in the face, he has been cheerful, brave and uncomplaining always. Ever since his advent in Philipsburg, he has been a popular favorite, and the interest felt and manifested in him by the people, especially since it became known that his doom was sealed, has been widespread and genuine. The circumstances surrounding his sickness have been peculiarly saddening and touched every heart. Young, handsome and gifted, happily married and just established in business, with nothing to regret and everything to hope and work and live for, it was hard indeed that he should fall while so many who would welcome death as a relief from trouble and sorrow, are doomed to live. About a month ago he expressed a desire to visit his father's home at Bellefonte, and he was accordingly removed to that place with the intention of returning to Philipsburg, but he became so prostrate that it has been impossible to carry out the plan while he lived. To-day his body will be brought here for interment in the cemetery, and it is fitting and right that he should be buried here. He loved the place and the people and they loved him. His stricken wife and her family, who loved him so tenderly and fondly that their grief is too sacred for comment, are here. The best and dearest friends and associates he had in the world, are here. Some of them are living and some are lying in the cemetery where he will be laid. His memory will always be kept green in Philipsburg, and his grave will be a hallowed spot.

Tender and Good Husbands.

Some of our lady readers, especially those just beginning to keep house may be anxious to learn the recipes best suited for making their homes pleasant and happy. Such persons are referred to the following admirable recipe—the best one of the kind which we have ever read: "A good many husbands are utterly spoiled by mismanagement. Some women go about it as if their husbands were bladders, and blow them up; others keep them constantly in hot water others let them freeze by their carelessness and indifference. Some keep them in a stew by irritating ways and words. Others roast them. Some keep them in pickle all their lives. It cannot be supposed that any husband will be tender and good managed in this way, but they are really delicious when properly treated. In selecting your husband you should not be guided by the silvery appearance, as in buying mackerel; nor by the golden tint, as if you wanted salmon. Be sure to select him yourself, as tastes differ. Do not go to market for him, as the best are always brought to your door. It is far better to have none unless you will patiently learn how to cook him. A preserving kettle of the finest porcelain is best; but if you have nothing but an earthenware pipkin, it will do with care. See that the linen in which you wrap him is nicely washed and mended, with the required number of buttons and strings sewed nicely on. Tie him in the kettle by a strong silk cord called 'comfort," as the one called duty is apt to be weak. They are apt to fly out of the kettle, and be burned and crusty on the edges since, like crabs and lobsters, you have to cook them while alive. Make a clear, steady fire out of love, neatness and cheerfulness. Set him as near this as seems to agree with him. If he sputters and fizzes, do not be anxious; some husbands do this till they are quite done. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectioners call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper on any account. A little spice improves them, but it must be used with judgment. Do not stick any sharp instrument into him to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently; watch the while lest he lie too flat and close to the kettle, and so become useless. You cannot fail to know when he is done. If thus treated, you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you and the children; and he will keep as long as you want, unless you become careless, and set him in too cold a place.

—Some of the contents of the inside pages of last week's Centre Democrat must be considered exceedingly interesting by the editors—so interesting, in fact, that they have seen fit to repeat it word for word, and in such regular order as to defy successful imitation. For instance, the reader who will glance at the first column of the second page of that paper will notice an article entitled "Dog Days in Russia." Lest the reader might not be satisfied with reading the article once, it is repeated on the first column of the sixth page, and the two columns in the two pages are exactly similar. So we can take every article of reading matter on the second page of that paper and find it repeated. Column 2 may be found again on column 2 of page 7, column 3 on page 3, and column 4 on page 6. The first article on the third page is entitled, "Oysters in Season." Fearing lest their readers would wait until next May to buy their oysters, Frank and George put their heads together and concluded to repeat the valuable bit of information on page 7. It is not probable that such brainy men exhausted their ideas and were compelled to repeat themselves; it is only because they thought that perhaps the readers would explode if compelled to cram up with so many separate ideas in one week.

—A special telephone dispatch to REPUBLICAN, on Wednesday afternoon, is as follows: At Peale Station, on the Vanderbilt Railroad, this morning, just after the passenger train had left in the direction of Snow Shoe and Lock Haven, a train of coal cars approached at full speed from behind. Those on the rear train did not appear to notice the train in front, but came on with undiminished speed. One of the hands on the passenger train saw the danger that threatened them. He jumped from the train and ran back at full speed, waving his hat as he ran. Then the coal train slackened its speed, but not until it had almost overtaken the train ahead of it. A few gentlemen from Bellefonte were on the passenger train returning from Philipsburg where they attended the funeral of Wm. Laurie, Jr. What might nave been a serious collision was averted by the prompt action of the employe on the passenger train.

—One of the grandest musical treats that the country can produce is in store for Bellefonters if a desire is manifested to take advantage of it. Manager Sourbeck has received a communication from the Madame Kellogg Opera Company saying that they can give Bellefonte one night this fall or winter if desired. The regular price of this company is $500 per night, and it will be necessary for an admission fee of $1.50 or $2.00 to be charged if they should be secured. This will be so, even if the hall is filled, as Humes' Hall is quite limited in its capacity. No date is named for the proposed visit, but Manager Sourbeck believes it will be in December. This company includes the greatest artists of the age. Now, if you believe that Bellefonte can pay for one first-class entertainment this year, consult Manager Sourbeck on the subject.

—Mr. John William Sohne, a young man employed in Cedar's bakery, in this place, was married on Thursday, at 5:30 p. m., to Miss Katurah Cronover, of Stone Creek, Huntingdon county, and who has lately been residing in the family of D. G. Bush. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. J. F. Delong in the Reformed church.

—Mrs. Dr. Geo. Fox and daughter, of Philadelphia, are guests at the beautiful mansion of Mrs. Reuben Valentine in the suburbs. None understand better than Mrs. Valentine and daughters the art of entertaining and the rare grace of hospitality.

How young old people look who have never been seriously sick, and who never worry and fret. How old young people look who fret and stew and suffer pain—all at once. But we can't altogether help our disposition, and we will sometimes get out of sorts in spite of all our caution. Then we need the best, the simplest and safest medicine known, which is Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Purifies the blood and renews vitality in old and young.

—"Harvest home" services are being held in some of the churches.

—The Centre Democrat, and following it, the Watchman, have busied themselves with the business arrangements of the firm of Hoover, Hughes & Co., at Moshannon. With the object of discovering if the charges made against them are true we consulted Mr. E. C. Humes Friday morning, who, we believe, is as familar with the operations of the firm as anyone in Bellefonte. He informed us that he knows nothing of any notice to the hands that "no more money will be paid out for labor until next Spring." He knows that they have heretofore been paid, in cash, on the 20th of each month, and they were so paid last month. He says that the company do not desire to keep a store at all and only keep it for the convenience of the employes, there being no other store near, and the men would often be compelled to go without necessaries if they did not have this store to trade at.

—The Misses Valentine and several other Bellefonte ladies who find rare and healthful enjoyment in horseback riding, present a pleasing picture as, singly or in groups, they move along on their spirited steeds.

—Mr. C. Hummel, a resident of Boalsburg, has on exhibition two beautiful deer and one fawn. The graceful and beautiful animals attract much attention and are visited by almost everybody who visit that vicinity.

—We hear of some people who refuse to send their children to the public schools because a few children of color attend. That is foolish.

$500,000 a Year.

Statement of the American, National and United States and Canada Express Companies, Troy, N. Y.

The strength of Rome lay not in her multitude, nor in her grain-laden fleets. These were elements of strength, but her never-failing resources lay in the self-control and discipline of Roman soldiers. Discipline—it is the very soul to all the wonderful meaning possessed by the word "veteran." Mr. Benedict, of Troy is a veteran in the express business. "Thirty three years," he said to your reporter, "I've stood at this desk." It is the discipline of years of experience which gives him the position he holds in the trust and esteem of these three great corporations. "We have a business of $500,000 a year, and I've been absent from this office hardly a month in all that time, although I must confess that many times I've worked here when suffering great pain, for I have been troubled all my life with biliousness and dyspepsia. My system had become so reduced and weak that I had no appetite, and my digestion wholly disordered. I've tried various remedies, but almost two years ago I happened to hit upon Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. After using only one bottle or so I began to feel stronger in every way. The great difficulty has been with my digestion, but this seems to regulate it perfectly. I have, sir, great faith in Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. I have bought and given a great deal of it to the poor around here; those, you know, who have no money to buy medicine of any kind, for there are a great many troubled with bilious diseases and suffer on without aid. I always keep FAVORITE REMEDY in the house. I consider it the best medicine for the blood in the market. Well, I must attend to this matter for the western part of the city. Say, you tell the Doctor I am coming down to Rondont to see him in August. I want to know him." I left the veteran, still at his post, rejoicing in health and grateful to Dr. Kennedy. 17 36 1y

Terms, $2.00 per annum in Advance

Local Department.

—Chestnuts are big, fat, white and crisp.

—The days are growing rapidly shorter.

—Thirty vehicles at market Saturday morning.

—Examinations were conducted by Prof. Wolf in the school house on Saturday.

—Miss Laura Wright, of Milesburg, and her friend, Miss May Crawford, of Arch Springs, Blair Co., are guests at the Mountain House, Snow Shoe.

—We understand that Messrs. Lyman Beck, Randolph Nightengale and Samuel Wetzel, of this place, contemplate a visit to Florida in the near future.

—The temperance ladies have a petition with hundreds of names signed to it asking for the privilege of holding the approaching series of temperance meetings in the Court House.

—Rev. John R. R. Robinson, rector of the Episcopal church, was at the meeting of the Williamsport Convocation on Wednesday of this week, and, consequently, there was no service in the church on tnat day.

—Reports reach us that a temperance sermon delivered by Rev. W. R. Whitney, at Fillmore, on Sunday, Sept. 20, was unusually able and telling in its effects. He is very pronounced in his temperance declarations.

—On Friday evening next the annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held for the election of officers and receiving the year's reports from the officers and chairmen of committees. Every member should be present.

—We greatly regret to hear of the illness of the efficient telegraph operator at Vail station, Mr. W. E. Hamer. We hope that his illness will be temporary and that he will soon be able to be about as usual, as he is much missed.

—The two young ladies in the Telephone Exchange evidently mistake Irv. Speer for a big gum drop or some other sort of confectionery. He is seriously considering the advisability of opening a confectionery store near the Exchange.

—Among the numerous post office appointments in this vicinity, recently, are the following: Wm. Cronister, Port Matilda; R. C. Leathers, Mountain Eagle; M. Packer, Beech Creek; H. A. Moore, Howard; A. T. Pifer, Lamar, and J. Price, Boalsburg.

—An immense sweet pumpkin, weighing 120½ lbs., may be seen in the show window of John Sourbeck's store. This monster was grown on Albert Owen's farm near town. It looks quite delicious and if converted into pies would make enough to supply a whole regiment.

—From the Norton (Kas.) Champion Supplement: "Mr. Speer, a young friend of J. R. Hamilton, will go into the loan and real estate business in his office. Mr. S. is recently from Bellefonte, Pa., a young gentlemen of marked ability. He has been heretofore a lightning manipulator."

—Mr. George A. Hilton, of Washington, D. C., is one of the best known temperance lecturers in the country. He will be in Bellefonte next Friday to address the audiences at the temperance meetings. The Ohio State Journal says "his speeches are very forcible in point of argument and facts. He brings to bear upon the subject a line of statistics not often used by temperance speakers."

—Mr. Jacob Tibbens, a resident of College township, died on Wednesday morning, Sept. 23, at 4 o'clock. Mr. Tibbens was about 80 years of age and enjoyed the esteem of all his neighbors. In politics he was a Democrat and in religious faith he adhered to the Reformed church. He lived a life which affords a model for all and his death was peaceful and triumphant. The funeral occurred on Friday.

—On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Jno. Reaser and her daughter, of Fillmore, while in Bellefonte, favored this office with a call. She carried in her arms something which almost resembled in shape a baseball bat, but which proved to be a cucumber. It is the longest cucumber we have ever seen, measuring 27 inches in length. Mrs. Reaser raised quite a large number of similar cucumbers, some even larger, but most of them were eaten while smaller, and were delicious. Mrs. Reaser calls it a "long giant" cucumber and also says it is Republican in politics, of the true Jas. G. Blaine stripe.

The County Commissioners, the Court House and the Temperance Workers.

When a meeting is to be held there must be some building in which to hold it. It is not convenient to hold it out doors, because the elements often precipitate a storm of either snow or rain, interfering with the comfort of its managers and patrons.

The temperance organizations that have engaged the services of Major Geo. A. Hilton and planned for a series of temperance meetings dimly realized these facts, and began to look about for a suitable place of meeting.

What more natural than that these intelligent and sensible folks should first think of the Court House? There it stands—an ancient and honorable building, hallowed by the memories of a thousand sacred associations. What eloquence has resounded through its halls and corridors! It is true that only a year ago an irreverent Grand Jury recommended its destruction and the erection of another, but this startling recommendation was "sat upon" by the succeeding Grand Jury, and the result is a few alterations and embellishments, of questionable taste.

To manage this grand old building with its massive pillars and interior decorations modeled after the Unionville school house, is a board of county commissioners, composed of Griest, Wolfe and Henderson, the last a Republican and the first two Democrats. When placed in charge of the old structure they did not go Noah Webster to find out what a court house is, for he says it is "a house in which established courts are held, or a house appropriated to courts and public meetings." Oh, no, they have a dictionary of their own up there, and they go back on old Noah. Whatever this dictator says they do. These grand commissioners gazed at the work which the painter and plasterer have wrought, feasted their vision on its yellow gorgeousness and its woodwork bright as a tin pan and vowed that none should enter into this sanctum sanctorum, except the President Judge and his courtiers four times a year. One of these commissioners informed us Tuesday that this resolution was adopted two years ago and broken frequently and now a mighty effort is to be made to keep it. By what right they—the mere custodians of the people's property—take such a step is not apparent.

A committee—largely composed of ladies, we believe, but among them ladies who are themselves heavy taxpayers—waited on these august servants of the people and humbly implored the use of the public building for this purpose—a cause which they champion at their own expense merely for the benefit of humanity. The commissioners did not fall upon them with a crushing, decided refusal. They told them to wait for an answer until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Indeed, Mr. Henderson, the Republican member, warmly championed their cause, and as the opposition became stronger his advocacy correspondingly increased, until he vowed he would favor them under any circumstances, and we understand he did. The time came, but the answer did not. Meanwhile, the ladies had fortified themselves with a petition signed by the citizens of Bellefonte and of all the surrounding towships. They especially enlisted in their cause Ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin and Jackson L. Spangler, Esq., but all in vain. The hero of the Centre county history said that his stupendous mind was made up and that he couldn't change it. He exerted a subtle but powerful influence over his fellow Democratic member—who was at first supposed to favor the ladies—and at 2 o'clock p. m. the negative answer was given.

We asked the commissioners for a precedent for such an astonishing action, and were referred to the opinion of a judge in York county and to the action of the Huntingdon county commissioners in refusing the county institute admission to the elegant new court house of that borough. But the conditions in those places are not parallel. In Bellefonte the only commodious hall in the town has recently been destroyed by fire, and the court room is the only suitable place remaining. No church is suitable for such a gathering, because people of other denominations, or faiths, do not feel the same freedom of entering that they do to a building which is common public property.

We do not believe the people of the county will approve this action. They have been accustomed to assemble in Bellefonte from all directions to use the court house for public meetings, and they realize that this action of the commissioners will debar them in the future. The two organizations under the auspices of which these meetings are to be conducted are as numerous in other parts of the county as in Bellefonte and it is an affront to all of them. A court house that is too good to use is like the parlors of some dwelling houses—ever tightly closed and never used lest the handsome furniture shall be ruined. Such a house is always an unhappy, uncomfortable place. And the idea of assuming airs with such an antiquated structure as the Bellefonte court house is absurd.

We understand that the commissioners condescended to grant the ladies the use of the common between the court house and jail, and if the weather remains pleasant the big tent of the Milesburg G. A. R. may be pitched there in which to hold the meetings.

A Gala Day for Bellefonte's Athletes—Victorious in two Battles.

The Champion tennis team and the Acme base ball nine won glory for Bellefonte on Saturday last. The tennis team was the first to engage in a contest. Messrs. Will Furst and Scott Harris composed this team and they met the State College team, composed of Messrs. Price Jackson and Walter Stephenson, on the College tennis court. At about 10:30 o'clock the two teams began the contest in the presence of a large number of spectators, with Messrs. Cochran and Hughes acting as umpires.

The first set was played with much energy on either side and was highly interesting. It was finally won by Furst and Harris by a score of 6 points to 3. The second set was much less interesting owing to the superior play of Bellefonte. Result, 6 to 1 in favor of the home team. Thus, having won two sets in succession, and, in consideration of the most interesting fact that success had whetted their appetites and a savory dinner awaited the members of the Bellefonte nine at Boalsburg, tennis was dispensed with and the happy party repaired to the Union Hotel in that place. The meal was all that could possibly have been desired and the way in which the viands disappeared showed how highly their excellence was appreciated. After resting about one hour, the Bellefonte and Boalsburg nines, accompanied by a large number of the good people of that town, went to the ball field. The umpire, Mr. James Johnson, called the game at 2.30 p. m., with the Acmes, who had won the toss, in the field, arranged as to position as follows: Catcher, Scott Harris; pitcher, Crider; 1st b., Hutchinson; 2d b., Will Furst; 3d b., Harry Green; s. s., Harry Johnston; l. f., Ellis Snyder; c. f. H. C. Quigley; r. f., J. R. Hughes. The members of the opposing nine were: Catcher, Kuhn; pitcher, Gibson; 1st b., Schaffer; 2d b., Fisher; 3d b., Jack; s. s., Wood; l. f., Kaup; c. f., Allen; r. f., Ishler.

In the first two innings the Acmes scored 3 runs. In the 3d inning, by bunching their hits and by errors of the Acmes, the Boalsburg made 5 runs. In the remainder of the game the exceptionally fine pitching of Crider, seconded by cool and careful play in the field enabled the Acmes to score up to 15, while Boalsburg was prevented from increasing their score by more than one run.

The most interesting features of the game were a running catch by Kaup of an ordinary 3-base hit, by which he assisted in throwing out a man at first, thus making a beautiful double play, and also a fine double play by Harris, assisted by Hutchinson. The Boalsburgers have a fine set of players in the field, but they were utterly unable to solve the mysterious and strategic delivery of Crider. They treated their visitors with the utmost courtesy, which is appreciated. They expect to play a return game in Bellefonte next Saturday, when an opportunity will be afforded the Acmes to be equally courteous. It will doubtless be an interesting game.

—The new schedule over the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad and the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont railroad will go into effect at 5.15 o'clock this morning (October 1.) The lines will be under the superintendence of E. B. Westfall as part of the Philadelphia & Erie Division. The first train will leave Bellefonte at 5.15 a. m., running through to Montandon where it arrives at 9.10 a. m. A train will leave Bellefonte at 1 p. m, and arrive at Montandon at 5.50 p. m. A train will leave Montandon for Bellefonte at 5.50 a. m., arriving here at 10.30 a. m. The second train from Montandon will leave that place at 1.35 p. m. arriving here at 6 p. m. Close connections will be made at Montandon with the Erie Mail West, with Day Express East and Niagara Express West, the Sea Shore express East and fast line west.

—Two men of foreign appearance gave a street entertainment on Friday evening after the arrival of the 5:20 train. They had in charge an upright instrument, and by turning a crank ground out music much like that of the piano. The music sounded sweet Necessarily, however, the instrument plays only a few tunes.

Snow Shoe Mountain.

For a day's recreation we know of no better place than at the top of Snow Shoe Mountain. Scaling the mount amid the beauties of an exquisitely tinted foliage, of a hundred shades, all bathed in the bright warm sunshine, is perfectly delightful. We made the trip Tuesday and arrived in the city at about 10.30 o'clock. After registering at that famous hotel, the Mountain House, we made a call on Mr. William Stewart, and enjoyed a stroll about his lawn, looking at his many beautiful flowers and plants. We also made the acquaintance of Jocko, a parrot of beautiful plumage and the best trained bird we ever saw, who performed numerous tricks upon the trapeze and proved very interesting. Mr. S. also has two handsome golden pheasants of brilliant plumage which he raised himself. He has about a dozen of the female birds in another cage. Mr. Stewart is a very pleasant and courteous gentleman and takes pleasure in showing visitors about his premises. At 12 o'clock we returned to the hotel, and partook of one of the best dinners ever served. Mr. and Mrs. Nolan are in Allentown and during their absence Mr. E. C. Poorman has the entire management of the house, and if ever a man was in a dozen places at once he is, and he warms his guests into a comfortable homelike feeling by his genial and friendly manner. We feel greatly indebted to Mr. Poorman for courtesies received during our stay. We called upon Mr. T. R. Buddinger at his store, which is largely stocked with merchandise of every description. Mr. B. is a very pleasant gentleman, and does a large business. Upon invitation, we partook of some delicious pears and bananas, and what we couldn't eat at the time we put in our pocket, and our pocket is large, too, made so in case of an emergency of this kind. Mrs. George Shirer we found at her old post—the post office—looking as pleasant and handsome as ever. We shook hands with two former Bellefonters, Mr. James Irvin, and Thad Longwell. Both gentlemen look well. Mr. John Uzzle has completed a very handsome residence near his hotel Grauer & Co. are doing a good business in one of the largest buildings in Snow Shoe. Their store is well kept and their stock of goods comprises everything. Boak & Co's store is fine looking from the outside, but we did not enter as we had not time. We would like to have stayed longer in this pleasant town but could not, so departed rather regretfully on the 4:30 train for Bellefonte, much pleased with our trip.

—The following reference to a recent social event in the life of Rev. Jno. Hewitt and his estimable wife will be read with interest by their numerous Bellefonte friends. We copy an extract from a description of the occasion in the Fremont (Neb.) Herald of Sept. 22: "The gathering at the residence of Rev. and Mrs. John Hewitt last evening was very delightful both indoors and out. The occasion was given in honor of Sergeant Brainard, and through the interest taken in the hero of the noted expedition and the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt and their friends, in directing such an entertainment, the large number of guests were made agreeably social. Sergeant Brainard was interesting in explaining the facts connected with the different photographs of the Arctic scenes, with which he was made so terribly familiar during that dreary winter, as he was also in speaking of the appearance of the specimens of vegetation which he had gathered among the icebergs, dried and pressed for the instruction and gratification of his friends at home. The Fremont band was present and contributed largely to the entertainment," etc. Sergeant Brainard, it will be remembered, was one of the heroes of the Greeley Relief Expedition, and one of the two men who reached the farthest point north ever made by man, the point being what is now known as Lockwood's Island, latitude 83°24′, Longitude 44°05′.

—Rev. R. C. Crittenden returned from Bradford county Monday evening where he has for the past ten days days been engaged in the Sunday-school work. Mr. C. reports having a very pleasant time as he there met many who labored with him years ago, some of whom he had not met since. The time spent there, he says, inclvded some of the happiest days of his life.

—Somebody has been stealing grapes from the garden of Hon. A. A. Barker, of Ebensburg, and he warns them in the local papers to desist from the practice. Doubtless, the grape thieves meant it only for a kindness, thus removing the temptation that the great Prohibition Barker may be exposed to of converting the grapes into wine.

Religious Notes.

Rev. John R. R. Robinson, in the Episcopal church, Sunday morning, delivered a sermon from the text Matthew 9:9—"And He saith unto him, 'Follow Me.'" In the evening his brief address was on the doctrine of the "Trinity," from Matthew 28:19.

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting was in charge of Mr. Washington Rees.

Rev. William Laurie delivered two excellent sermons, the morning text being II Corinthians 5:9, and that of the evening being Malachi 3:16, 17.

In the Lutheran church in the morning communion was administered, Rev. Chas. T. Steck taking for the text of his morning discourse Matthew 26:26 and 27. In the evening he preached eloquently from Hebrew 11:8, 9 and 10.

Rev. M. K. Foster preached in the evening from the 46th Psalm, 1st verse.

Rev. Mr. DeLong's morning discourse, in Reformed church, was from Galatians 6:7 and 8.

—The People's Greenback Labor, etc., party of Centre county are preparing for a "big meeting" on Saturday, October 24, in the large tent at Milesburg. The exercises will continue during the afternoon and evening of that day. We are informed that special trains will be run and Milesbnrg will be the Mecca of all faithful Greenbackers as well as of hundreds of others. The principal orator will be Mr. Jesse Harper, of Illinois, the gentleman who presented Lincoln's name for the Presidential nomination. He will be ably assisted by such celebrities as Col. S. F. Norton, of Chicago, whose great argument in favor of the equality of the soldier with the bondholder has attracted so much notice, and Hon. Thos. A. Armstrong, who figured as a candidate for Governor in 1882. Meanwhile, the two big parties will stand back and be interested observers.

Installation Exercises.

On Monday evening, the 28th inst., Depty. D. D. G. M., H. H. Benner, installed the following newly-elected officers of Bellefonte Encampment No. 72, I. O. O. F., for the ensuing term:

Theodore Deschner, C. P.; H. C. Weaver, S. W.; John Olewine, H. P.

Some of the newly elected officers not being present, their installation was posponed until a future meeting.

After the usual business of the evening had been completed the Encampment was very agreeably surprised by an announcment made by the newly installed C. P. that an oyster and coffee supper was awaiting all present in the dining rooms of Mr. C. M. Heisler, at the expense of the officers just installed, to which rooms all at once repaired, and partook of a repast gotten up in Mrs. Heisler's best style.

Starting Up.

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 28, 1885.

MR. EDITOR: Seventy-two pots are in operation in the window glass factories this month. The Atco factory in New Jersey starts to-day. Wetherhold & Wells, of Ohio, eight at Elmer, N. J., eight at Croton Works, New Castle, Penna., ten at Quaker City, Ohio, eight at Woodbury, N. J., ten at Enterprise Works, at Bellaire, Ohio. The wage question is in the hands of a sub-committee appointed at the recent conference. One of the arguments used by the workmen in supporting their demand for last year's wages is that if the above factories can afford to pay these prices the others can. Only one of these factories—the one at Elmer, N. J.,—is run by workmen.

WINDOW GLASS.

—Mr. E. C. Humes has received a letter from Mr. Hoover, business manager of the firm of Hoover, Hughes & Co., in which that gentleman emphatically denies that any notice has been given to the employes of the firm that no money will be paid to them until next Spring. No such notice has been thought of. The only employes who are not paid monthly are men at work in the log camps. We are informed that it is seldom if ever customary to settle with these men until Spring as they do not need money in the woods, but whenever they require money it is given them. Now, will the Democrat and the Watchman please explain.

—A wedding occurred last Tuesday at the home of Mr. Stein, near Zion, the contracting parties being Mr. W. Frank Schoch and Miss Anna Bridge. Mr. Schoch was formerly connected with the Brockerhoff House here, and is now living at Lewisburg. Miss Bridge has resided in the family of Judge A. O. Furst. They are good looking and very popular young people and we wish them much happiness.

—Some of the particularly aesthetic ladies are quite "wild" over the beauties of the bright Autumn leaves.

Personal Pencilings.

Ex-Judge Orvis is still quite ill at his home on Linn street.

Judge A. O. Furst returned Monday morning from Huntingdon.

Mrs. Fisk, of Lock Haven, is a guest at the home of Mrs. J. G. Love.

Mr. Wm. Jenkins started on Tuesday on a business trip to Virginia.

Mr. H. D. Lee, of Fillmore, always lively and agreeable, called on Saturday.

John Ray, of Lewisburg, a brother of Sylvester Ray, Esq., was in Bellefonte Saturday.

Mrs. Gilliland, of Boalsburg, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hammon Sechler, of Linn St.

Miss Carrie Tibbens, who lives at Farmers Mills, is now visiting friends in Illinois and Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Keen, after an extended visit in the West, are at home again in Millheim.

Mr. Lee Woodcock, of Altoona, spent Sunday at the home of Rev. Mr. Woodcock, on Linn St.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Garman, who have been spending two weeks in the city, came home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Carscaddon, of Greenville, is a guest at the home of Mrs. C's sisters, the Misses Benner, on High St.

Ex-Gov. Curtin made an address at Hazelton on Friday, on the occasion of the unveiling of the soldiers' monument.

Miss Laura Rankin, a young lady from Orbisonia, who is very popular in Bellefonte, is at present visiting friends here.

Mr. H. G. Royer, of Wolfe's Store, visited Bellefonte this morning and spent a few minutes in the REPUBLICAN office.

Mrs. Mary Stine, of Roland, spen a few hours in Bellefonte on Saturday, much to the delight of her numerous friends.

Mrs. George Baker and daughter, of Chester county, are guests at the home of Mrs. B's brother, Mr. H. K Hicks, on Linn St.

Hon. L. A. Mackey was in Philadelphia at the opening of the State Fair on Wednesday and visited Bellefonte again Friday evening.

Two very fascinating young ladies—Miss Kittie McCollough, of Clearfield, and Miss Ida Watson, of Tyrone—tarried in Bellefonte on Thursday.

Mrs. Irwin Shoultz, of Wilcox, Elk county, Pa., is a guest at the home of Mrs. Brockerhoff. Her husband is the owner of the largest tannery in Pennsylvania.

Mr. John Kenyon, the gentleman who skillfully superintends the operation of the telephone service in Philipsburg and vicinity, saluted his friends in Bellefonte on Sunday.

Martin Bingman, of Snow Shoe, was granted a patent for an eavetrough holder, on Tuesday, Sept. 22. This fact is reported to us by Ellsworth & Yantis, Patent Solicitors Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Hoffer returned last Monday from their wedding tour. They will begin housekeeping at once in comfortable apartments in Reynolds' new building, next to Loeb's store, on Allegheny St.

Mrs. W. P. Riley and Mrs. M. E. Kitzmiller, of Williamsport, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kitzmiller, on Water street. Mrs. Riley is the wife of the proprietor of the Valley Iron Works in Williamsport.

Mr. W. Barnhurst, of the firm of H. Belfield & Co., founders and manufacturers, No. 435 North Broad St., Philadelphia, has been in Bellefonte since Saturday. He is one of the most agreeable young gentlemen the Quaker City can produce.

The REPUBLICAN was favored with a call on Thursday afternoon from Geo. E. McLaughlin, Esq., the handsome and genial proprietor of the Pennsylvania Retort and Fire Brick Works, at Retort (formerly Powelton) Centre Co., Penna.

Mr. Wilbur Harris, the very efficient clerk in the post office, departed last Saturday on a trip to Williamsport and Northumberland. At the latter place he will attend a wedding. We take it for granted that the wedding will not be his own, but that of some other person.

Mr. Cephas L. Gramley, of Reberburg, was among the teachers attracted to Bellefonte Saturday by the examinations in progress. He has just finished a popular summer school term and will soon begin the fall session of school. He is one of the best instructors in Centre county. In addition to literary acquirements, he is a thoroughly informed gentleman on all topics, and is a genuine Republican in politics.

—The noise of the workman's hammer is now heard in the land in the erection of buildings of all descriptions.
